JFK Reported More Inclined To 1962 Tax Cut

French, German Troops Parade Before Leaders

REIMS, France (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer reviewed German and French soldiers marching together Sunday near this city symbolic of bitter French-German conflict in two world wars.

Then at a luncheon, the leaders of the two old enemy nations capped their postwar conciliation with pledges to help preserve the peace of Europe.

The panoply at this cathedral city was purposely planned by the French as the high spot of the West German leader's six-day visit. It was designed to stamp Adenauer's visit as a historic turning point in European affairs.

They sat together, surrounded by their generals, for Mass in the fine old 13th-century cathedral where nearly all France's kings were crowned in bygone days of glory and where Joan of Arc appeared in the cathedral to have Charles VII acclaimed king.

The cathedral was badly damaged by German artillery in World War I and the citizens suffered under German occupation. And it was here the Germans signed the capitulation in World War II.

The 86-year-old chancellor said upon his return to Bonn that the friendship of the two former enemies is "a very firm political dam" against Soviet expansion in Europe.

Adenauer and De Gaulle drove to Mourmelon Camp, 18 miles east of Reims, for the historic parade of their soldiers.

In the line of march were 1,000 German soldiers and 1,500 French paratroopers. Clouds of dust swirled over the reviewing stand as tracked reconnaissance vehicles and tanks of the two forces passed by.

After the last units of the ground forces marched past, 32 jet planes from the French air force screamed by at low altitude over the gently rolling farmland of the champagne country.

Sen. Byrd Raps C Of C Support Of Quick Slash

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy was reported Sunday to be leaning more strongly toward a 1962 tax cut while Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., denounced the U.S. Chamber of Commerce for advocating such a reduction.

And more senatorial voices were raised in behalf of a cut to be voted at the current session of Congress as a stimulant to the economy.

Stanley Ruttenberg, director of the AFL-CIO research department, said Kennedy has begun to weaken on his schedule calling for a cut to be voted next year and made retroactive to Jan. 1, 1963.

Hopes Kennedy Changes Mind

Speaking on a recorded AFL-CIO radio interview program—MBS-"Labor News Conference"—Ruttenberg said: "We are in great hopes that with continued pressure from all sides he will reconsider and recommend an immediate tax cut."

Last week, Byrd sharply criticized the chamber's endorsement of a tax cut even though it might contribute to further unbalancing of the federal budget for fiscal 1963.

Sunday, the Virginian released the text of a letter to H. Ladd Plumley, chamber president, in which Byrd expressed shock, astonishment, dismay and sadness at the chamber's action. He called it "untimely, dangerous and panicky" and "fiscally irresponsible in the highest degree."

Byrd Plans C Of C Check

Byrd demanded that Plumley advise him whether the June 29 action by the board of the national organization had "the specific and full approval and support" of the chamber's membership. And the senator added he is writing to the presidents of state chambers to get their views. Byrd is chairman of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee.

Plumley has made public a letter to Byrd defending the chamber's proposal for a quick tax cut as a declaration of "a form of cold war against forces depriving the economy of its full measure of growth."

Soviets Closing Atom Sub Gap

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union was credited Sunday with "enormous progress in the nuclear submarine field" which soon may enable the Russians to match the missile-firing capabilities of the powerful U.S. Polaris submarines.

The estimate came from Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who has extensive knowledge of military secrets through his membership on the Congressional Atomic and Senate Armed Services committees.

The United States now plans a total of 41 Polaris nuclear-powered submarines, each of which can launch 16 ballistic missiles with atomic warheads while submerged or surfaced.

Jackson, in a taped interview with Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., for use over Pennsylvania radio-television stations, said the expanding Soviet nuclear underwater flotilla probably will force an expansion of the U.S. Polaris fleet.

House Opens Foreign Aid Bill Debate Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House opens debate Monday on the foreign aid bill with a major floor fight in prospect on whether the United States should halt aid to Communist Poland and Yugoslavia.

Rep. Bob Casey, D-Tex., plans to lead a fight for an amendment to cut off all aid to Communist countries. He contends that such assistance is "a ridiculous misuse of tax funds."

A-Blasts On Two Fronts Set Today

CAMP MERCURY, Nev. (AP)—American nuclear testers, with two shots in two days and three other atomic blasts in the immediate offing, are moving in high gear, though weather has caused delays.

On two fronts—in Nevada's desert and the Pacific Ocean—United States scientists are pushing research on both the military and civilian angles.

Aerial blasts, both previously postponed because of weather conditions, were tentatively re-set for Monday in both test areas.

A third nuclear detonation, also expected to be above ground, was unofficially reported planned in mid-week using troops under atomic battlefield conditions.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Department of Defense fired a secret nuclear weapon a few feet above the Nevada desert Saturday. It was the first aerial nuclear test on American soil since the 1958 pact to suspend atomic tests. The current U.S. testing began after Russia broke the ban with a series of aerial detonations.

New Floods Hit Japan; Scores Dead, Missing

TOKYO (AP)—Violent monsoon rains triggered widespread floods and landslides in Japan's southernmost island of Kyushu this weekend, leaving at least 46 persons dead, 36 missing and 35,000 homeless.

As heavy downpours — whipped by the approach of Typhoon Joan —continued Sunday, a heavy toll was reported in human suffering, homes destroyed, property lost and damage to communications and crops.

Police in Kyushu counted 82 bridges washed away by flooding rivers, 662 landslides, 458 broken dikes, railways buried at 39 places and 80,000 acres of rice fields under water.

Troops from the self-defense forces were rushed to the worst hit regions — Nagasaki and Sage prefectures—aboard coast guard ships, as floods made overland travel impracticable. They helped dig out the buried, rescued the survivors and brought them food and clothing.

The Weather Bureau predicted more heavy rains for Monday and issued flood warnings for southern Japan.

Seismologists watching Mt. Aso, 5,055-foot active volcano in central Kyushu, expressed fear of an eruption as a result of clogging of the crater by earth driven into it by rain.

The weekend floods followed a week of hard rain in which 52 persons had perished.

The entire population of Isahaya —65,000 persons — was ordered evacuated Sunday as waist-high water from nearby Honmei River gushed through its main street. Isahaya has not yet forgotten the flash floods of late July 1957, which took the lives of 315 persons.

Street Fights Flare During Turin Strike

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Striking metalworkers in this booming northern Italian city clashed Sunday with police and other workers in a spate of street fights.

Apparently there were no serious injuries, but the skirmishes made Turin uneasy, and extra police were on duty.

The street fighting started Saturday when hundreds of thousands of metalworkers began a three-day nationwide strike in a contract dispute with major industries.

46 Bodies Removed In Jet Crash

All 94 Aboard Italian Airliner Presumed Dead

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Fighting rain, mud and jungle, search teams brought 46 bodies Sunday from a hillside east of Bombay where an Italian jet airliner crashed, apparently killing all 94 persons aboard.

Police said if any of the passengers or crew survived the shattering crash they could not live long through the nearly continous rains and howling winds of a raging southwest monsoon. Rescuers who reached the scene had to keep watch for panthers and wild boar.

Because of the weather, rescue teams called off their search for bodies until Monday morning.

Fifty vehicles were reported bogged down in the heavy rain en route to the site. Two ambulances carrying a doctor and 20 assistants managed to get through.

Worst Italian Air Disaster

The crash of the Alitalia airliner was the worst disaster in Italy's aviation history. Never before had more than 40 died in an Italian plane crash.

The four-jet DC8 plummetted into 700-foot-high Nimgiri Hill around midnight Friday. Local villagers reported seeing a ball of flame leap from the crest of the hill, 55 miles east of Bombay.

In Rome, Alitalia Airlines said its own investigators on the scene had reported there was no fire after the plane hit the hill. It said the absence of burned or blackened vegetation made the wreckage difficult to spot from the air.

Pilot's Last Message

Alitalia officials said the pilot of the DC8 four-engine jet in his last message had reported he was only eight miles east of Bombay at an altitude of 4,500 feet. And that was but three minutes before he was due to land in Bombay.

The pilot, Cmdr. Luigi Quattrin, was one of the most experienced in the line's service, with a flying record dating back to World War II, said G. Picardo, Alitalia's manager in Bombay.

The plane was on a flight from Sydney, Australia, to Rome, with stops scheduled at Singapore, Bangkok, Bombay, Karachi and Tehran.

The 85 passengers reported by the airline to be aboard were Asians, Britons, Irishmen, Australians and Italians. As far as was known, no Americans were on the flight.

Goodman Calls Tour Success

MOSCOW (AP)—Benny Goodman wound up his six-week jazz tour of the Soviet Union Sunday and pronounced his U.S. government-sponsored mission a success.

He also said he doubts the Russians will be able to develop an independent, Soviet-style jazz, as some of their propagandists have urged.

"They may run up against a brick wall there," Goodman commented. "I'd be very much interested in knowing what they'll find. It takes more than a committee to develop jazz."

Goodman summed up his views at a farewell luncheon which he gave Western newsmen at a hotel restaurant across from the Kremlin.

Later he closed out the tour with another standing-room-only concert at the Lenin Sports Palace, where he and the band played about 20 minutes of encores.

"The tour was certainly a great experience," he said at the luncheon. "I've enjoyed it."

JFK Sends Get-Well Note To Sir Winston

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill has received a get-well message from President Kennedy, a spokesman said Sunday.

The 87-year-old statesman had a restful night and there has been no extension of the phlebitis in his injured left leg, his doctors reported.

The spokesman said the President's message offered sympathy and expressed a wish for a speedy r covery. Sir Winston sent cordial thanks.

The phlebitis—inflammation of a vein—was described as a minor complication in the former prime minister's recovery from the broken thigh he suffered June 28 in a Monte Carlo hotel.

Burma Troops Fire On Rioting Students, Kill 15

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Burmese troops opened fire with automatic weapons on University of Rangoon students protesting the arrest of four of their leaders Saturday night, killing 15 of them and critically wounding 27.

Then, Sunday, army men blew up the student union building with a blast that shattered windows and sheared off roofing of homes nearby.

No reason was given for the demolition of the two-story building. Witnesses said the students fled after 200 troops charged with guns blazing.

The trouble began when four student leaders were arrested for leading an earlier demonstration against a government-imposed 10 p.m. curfew on student hostels. The larger demonstration edveloped after police took four leaders into custody.

The ruling Revolutionary Council announced the students had been warned three times the troops would open fire if they did not end their demonstration. It said the students hurled stones at army forces when they arrived on the scene three miles outside Rangoon.

Witnesses said the students had held the university rector, U Kha, and other professors and their families captives in their homes before the troops arrived.

Witnesses said the army gunfire sent the students scattering, leaving behind the dead and wounded. Dozens of ambulances rushed to the scene to remove the wounded.

Hundreds of persons gathered outside Rangoon General Hospital later as doctors worked through the night on the wounded students. The hospital was blocked off to unauthorized persons.

The government announced the university was closed until further notice and a curfew was imposed in the area.

Proposal For Ending Doctor Strike Aired

REGINA, Sask. (UPI)—Premier Woodrow Lloyd Sunday night was meeting with provincial Treasurer A. E. Blakeney and believed discussing a proposal which could settle Saskatchewan's week-old doctors' strike, if accepted by both sides.

Medical Services Incorporated (MSI), a doctor-sponsored and province-wide private health plan, administered by a doctor-elected board, proposed Friday that the crisis might be solved by placing all financial dealings under the Medical Care Insurance Act in the hands of the MSI rather than the Medical Care Insurance Commission.

Blakeney said just before the meeting with Lloyd that the MSI proposal "quite possibly" would be discussed.

Propaganda Guns Loaded
"Peace" Congress To Open In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev and his cohorts put final charges Sunday into the propaganda cannon aimed at the United States and designed to be fired at the "Congress for General Disarmament and Peace" opening here Monday.

At the same time, diplomatic sources said the Chinese Communists and the Russians have decided to use the conference to disavow publicly any disputes between them which are now claimed to be the investion of rotten bourgeois journalists.

For the first time since these alleged nonexistent arguments started, Pravda opened its front page Sunday to a major Chinese statement of opinion.

It quoted the chief Chinese delegate to the Congress, Mao Tung, as saying: "I think that the World Congress for General Disarmament and Peace will produce fresh evidence of the unity of our peoples in the struggle for peace, that a resolute rebuff will be given to the forces of imperialism, and especially of American imperialism, which is intensifying the arms race."

Among the several thousand delegates who have come here to denounce "American imperialism" are about 150 Americans.

It was learned that Canon Lewis John Collins of St. Paul's Cathedral in London, a sponsor of the Congress, intends to denounce the Soviet Union's original resumption of nuclear testing when he speaks Tuesday. This is a point that has not come up in the pre-congress publicity and one which most of the leaders would like to ignore.

Collins will be supported by Kingsley Martin, former editor of the New Statesman, and by Sidney Silverman, member of Parliament. They also will call on the Soviet Union not to use the current American tests as an excuse for new Soviet testing.

This view also will be expressed by two spokesmen for the U.S. Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy. These Americans are not here as delegates or even official observers but wanted a chance to put forth an American view not influenced by Soviet policy. The two, who paid their own way here, are Homer Jack, executive director of the committee, and Erich Fromm, both of New York.

Pacifist Offers Disarm Plan

LONDON (AP) — Earl Russell, in a message to the Moscow conferenceon disarmament organized by the World Council of Peace, urged a disarmament scheme drawn up and inspected by neutrals.

In a tape-recorded speech released Monday the 90-year-old pacifist said: "Considerations of prestige and suspicions of ulterior motives would not stay in the way of acceptance of such a scheme, as they do at present, against the acceptance of schemes proposed by 'the other side'."

Lord Russell's message has been taken to Moscow by Christopher Farley, secretary of the Committee of 100, the antinuclear organization of which Russell is president. It was Russell's sponsorship of the Moscow peace congress, opening Monday, that caused the Labor party recently to consider his expulsion.

European Exodus Continues

In the European quarter, where 97 persons were killed in a street battle Thursday, French gendarmerie patrolled the streets by agreement with the Moslem authorities. There were no nationalist troops—and no Ben Bella slogans—in the European quarter. Most of the remaining inhabitants seemed to have made up their minds to leave the country after Thursday's fighting. Hundreds of them lined up again Sunday for plane seats to France.

French sources said about 120 Europeans were reported missing in the city. They are believed held in police stations as suspected terrorists of the defunct Secret Army Oorganization.

The new prefect — provincial governor — of Oran, Labouari Souia, broadcast a warning that the Moslem authorities would not tolerate possession of arms by private individuals. Souia, regarded as a supporter of Ben Bella, was nominated last week by the local command of the nationalist guerrilla army.

Thai Exodus Of 1,000 Marines Completed

UDON, Thailand (AP)—A company of U.S. Marine ground troops was flown from this sprawling camp to home base in Okinawa on Saturday night, completing the pullout of 1,000 Marines from the task force stationed here.

The withdrawal began last Monday on orders from President Kennedy after the United States noted a general lessening of tension along the Laotian border.

Most of the 1,000 consisted of air support units, including a squadron of jets and a helicopter squadron, which could be moved back quickly if the need arose.

The withdrawal leaves close to 2,000 Marines and 2,000 Army troops based in Thailand.

Compromise Move Made By Premier

Troops Supporting Dissident Deputy March Into Oran

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—Steel-helmeted Algerian army forces supporting dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed ben Bella took control of the Moslem quarters of Oran without opposition Sunday.

Flocking in triumphantly from Morocco, the troops hailed Ben Bella as the hero of Algeria's independence.

With western Algeria firmly in the hands of his supporters, Ben Bella left Cairo, apparently for Rabat. Presumably he planned to make a triumphant entry from Morocco.

From Algiers, moderate Premier Youssef ben Khedda sent two of his ministers to Rabat to seek a reconciliation between the rival factions.

Crowds Cheer 1,500 Troops

Nine companies of regular Algerian troops, totaling about 1,500 men, arrived on the outskirts of Oran, Algeria's second-largest city, late Saturday night shouting, "Ya Hya Ben Bella"—Long live Ben Bella. Their equipment included antitank rockets and heavy machine guns recently manufactured in Czechoslovakia.

As they moved into the Moslem quarters of the city, they were enthusiastically greeted by crowds raising cheer after cheer for Ben Bella.

Overnight, thousands of Ben Bella slogans were painted on walls throughout the Moslem quarters of the city. Boy Scouts and children's groups paraded with huge portraits of Ben Bella and chanting Ben Bella slogans.

The army unit set up its headquarters in an abandoned farmhouse on the southern outskirts of the city. An officer there refused any information, declaring he could not divulge "military secrets."

Surveys Spur Kennedy Physical Fitness Appeal

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy deplored statistics Sunday showing 25 per cent of the nation's school children cannot pass a simple fitness test and urged all schools to make youngsters exercise.

He called the statistics frightening.

Kennedy found some encouragement in surveys that indicated more boys and girls were able to pass tests in schools having organized fitness programs—and fewer failed after a year of physical education.

"This is strong evidence that the threat to the strength of young America can be overcome," Kennedy said in a statement issued by the Cape Cod White House.

"Yet, the shocking fact remains that at least 60 per cent of our children do not participate in a daily program of vigorous physical activity. This conclusively shows how much remains to be done, and this is the critical time of the year."

Kennedy called on school officials, in making plans for fall semesters, to set up programs "that contribute to the health and well-being of all our boys and girls."

The chief executive based his appeal on a report submitted by Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma football coach and his consultant on youth fitness. Wilkinson summarized data obtained through pilot projects in North Dakota, Missouri, Oklahoma, Georgia and Pennsylvania, samplings by government agencies and Youth Fitness Council studies.

16 Escape After Flaming Turboprop Crash-Lands

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—A Continental Airlines plane caught fire Sunday seconds after takeoff and crash landed in a field. The 13 passengers and three crew members walked away from the flaming and exploding craft and suffered only minor injuries.

The flight originated in this Texas Panhandle city. It was en route to Lubbock, Midland, San Angelo, Austin and Houston, all in Texas.

A heroine emerged from the near-tragedy—hostess Linda Howard, based at El Paso.

Scorning a safety belt, she sought to keep the passengers calm. There was no panic.

"She told us the pilot was going to bring the plane down," said Mrs. H. S. Dodd Jr. of Andrews, Tex., whose two children were aboard.

"Then she walked up and down the aisle calming the passengers. She was shaken up but didn't seem to be hurt," said Mrs. Dodd.

The turboprop Viscount took off from Amarillo airport and went only 2½ miles from the end of the runway before the pilot set it down with a wheels-up landing in a field.

The passengers left by an emergency door and dropped about two feet to the muddy field from which wheat had been harvested earlier this year.

The craft carries about 60 passengers when fully loaded and costs about $1 million. It was destroyed.

The crash of the Alitalia airliner was the worst disaster in Italy's aviation history. Never before had more than 40 died in an Italian plane crash.

The four-jet DC8 plummetted into 700-foot-high Nimgiri Hill around midnight Friday. Local villagers reported seeing a ball of flame leap from the crest of the hill, 55 miles east of Bombay.

In Rome, Alitalia Airlines said its own investigators on the scene had reported there was no fire after the plane hit the hill. It said the absence of burned or blackened vegetation made the wreckage difficult to spot from the air.

Pilot's Last Message

Alitalia officials said the pilot of the DC8 four-engine jet in his last message had reported he was only eight miles east of Bombay at an altitude of 4,500 feet. And that was but three minutes before he was due to land in Bombay.

The pilot, Cmdr. Luigi Quattrin, was one of the most experienced in the line's service, with a flying record dating back to World War II, said G. Picardo, Alitalia's manager in Bombay.

The plane was on a flight from Sydney, Australia, to Rome, with stops scheduled at Singapore, Bangkok, Bombay, Karachi and Tehran.

The 85 passengers reported by the airline to be aboard were Asians, Britons, Irishmen, Australians and Italians. As far as was known, no Americans were on the flight.

Goodman Calls Tour Success

MOSCOW (AP)—Benny Goodman wound up his six-week jazz tour of the Soviet Union Sunday and pronounced his U.S. government-sponsored mission a success.

He also said he doubts the Russians will be able to develop an independent, Soviet-style jazz, as some of their propagandists have urged.

"They may run up against a brick wall there," Goodman commented. "I'd be very much interested in knowing what they'll find. It takes more than a committee to develop jazz."

Goodman summed up his views at a farewell luncheon which he gave Western newsmen at a hotel restaurant across from the Kremlin.

Later he closed out the tour with another standing-room-only concert at the Lenin Sports Palace, where he and the band played about 20 minutes of encores.

"The tour was certainly a great experience," he said at the luncheon. "I've enjoyed it."

JFK Sends Get-Well Note To Sir Winston

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill has received a get-well message from President Kennedy, a spokesman said Sunday.

The 87-year-old statesman had a restful night and there has been no extension of the phlebitis in his injured left leg, his doctors reported.

The spokesman said the President's message offered sympathy and expressed a wish for a speedy r covery. Sir Winston sent cordial thanks.

The phlebitis—inflammation of a vein—was described as a minor complication in the former prime minister's recovery from the broken thigh he suffered June 28 in a Monte Carlo hotel.

Burma Troops Fire On Rioting Students, Kill 15

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Burmese troops opened fire with automatic weapons on University of Rangoon students protesting the arrest of four of their leaders Saturday night, killing 15 of them and critically wounding 27.

Then, Sunday, army men blew up the student union building with a blast that shattered windows and sheared off roofing of homes nearby.

No reason was given for the demolition of the two-story building. Witnesses said the students fled after 200 troops charged with guns blazing.

The trouble began when four student leaders were arrested for leading an earlier demonstration against a government-imposed 10 p.m. curfew on student hostels. The larger demonstration edveloped after police took four leaders into custody.

The ruling Revolutionary Council announced the students had been warned three times the troops would open fire if they did not end their demonstration. It said the students hurled stones at army forces when they arrived on the scene three miles outside Rangoon.

Witnesses said the students had held the university rector, U Kha, and other professors and their families captives in their homes before the troops arrived.

Witnesses said the army gunfire sent the students scattering, leaving behind the dead and wounded. Dozens of ambulances rushed to the scene to remove the wounded.

Hundreds of persons gathered outside Rangoon General Hospital later as doctors worked through the night on the wounded students. The hospital was blocked off to unauthorized persons.

The government announced the university was closed until further notice and a curfew was imposed in the area.

Proposal For Ending Doctor Strike Aired

REGINA, Sask. (UPI)—Premier Woodrow Lloyd Sunday night was meeting with provincial Treasurer A. E. Blakeney and believed discussing a proposal which could settle Saskatchewan's week-old doctors' strike, if accepted by both sides.

Medical Services Incorporated (MSI), a doctor-sponsored and province-wide private health plan, administered by a doctor-elected board, proposed Friday that the crisis might be solved by placing all financial dealings under the Medical Care Insurance Act in the hands of the MSI rather than the Medical Care Insurance Commission.

Blakeney said just before the meeting with Lloyd that the MSI proposal "quite possibly" would be discussed.

Propaganda Guns Loaded "Peace" Congress To Open In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev and his cohorts put final charges Sunday into the propaganda cannon aimed at the United States and designed to be fired at the "Congress for General Disarmament and Peace" opening here Monday.

At the same time, diplomatic sources said the Chinese Communists and the Russians have decided to use the conference to disavow publicly any disputes between them which are now claimed to be the investion of rotten bourgeois journalists.

For the first time since these alleged nonexistent arguments started, Pravda opened its front page Sunday to a major Chinese statement of opinion.

It quoted the chief Chinese delegate to the Congress, Mao Tung, as saying: "I think that the World Congress for General Disarmament and Peace will produce fresh evidence of the unity of our peoples in the struggle for peace, that a resolute rebuff will be given to the forces of imperialism, and especially of American imperialism, which is intensifying the arms race."

Among the several thousand delegates who have come here to denounce "American imperialism" are about 150 Americans.

It was learned that Canon Lewis John Collins of St. Paul's Cathedral in London, a sponsor of the Congress, intends to denounce the Soviet Union's original resumption of nuclear testing when he speaks Tuesday. This is a point that has not come up in the pre-congress publicity and one which most of the leaders would like to ignore.

Collins will be supported by Kingsley Martin, former editor of the New Statesman, and by Sidney Silverman, member of Parliament. They also will call on the Soviet Union not to use the current American tests as an excuse for new Soviet testing.

This view also will be expressed by two spokesmen for the U.S. Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy. These Americans are not here as delegates or even official observers but wanted a chance to put forth an American view not influenced by Soviet policy. The two, who paid their own way here, are Homer Jack, executive director of the committee, and Erich Fromm, both of New York.

Pacifist Offers Disarm Plan

LONDON (AP) — Earl Russell, in a message to the Moscow conferenceon disarmament organized by the World Council of Peace, urged a disarmament scheme drawn up and inspected by neutrals.

In a tape-recorded speech released Monday the 90-year-old pacifist said: "Considerations of prestige and suspicions of ulterior motives would not stay in the way of acceptance of such a scheme, as they do at present, against the acceptance of schemes proposed by 'the other side'."

Lord Russell's message has been taken to Moscow by Christopher Farley, secretary of the Committee of 100, the antinuclear organization of which Russell is president. It was Russell's sponsorship of the Moscow peace congress, opening Monday, that caused the Labor party recently to consider his expulsion.

16 Escape After Flaming Turboprop Crash-Lands

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—A Continental Airlines plane caught fire Sunday seconds after takeoff and crash landed in a field. The 13 passengers and three crew members walked away from the flaming and exploding craft and suffered only minor injuries.

The flight originated in this Texas Panhandle city. It was en route to Lubbock, Midland, San Angelo, Austin and Houston, all in Texas.

A heroine emerged from the near-tragedy—hostess Linda Howard, based at El Paso.

Scorning a safety belt, she sought to keep the passengers calm. There was no panic.

"She told us the pilot was going to bring the plane down," said Mrs. H. S. Dodd Jr. of Andrews, Tex., whose two children were aboard.

"Then she walked up and down the aisle calming the passengers. She was shaken up but didn't seem to be hurt," said Mrs. Dodd.

The turboprop Viscount took off from Amarillo airport and went only 2½ miles from the end of the runway before the pilot set it down with a wheels-up landing in a field.

The passengers left by an emergency door and dropped about two feet to the muddy field from which wheat had been harvested earlier this year.

The craft carries about 60 passengers when fully loaded and costs about $1 million. It was destroyed.

Compromise Move Made By Premier

Troops Supporting Dissident Deputy March Into Oran

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—Steel-helmeted Algerian army forces supporting dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed ben Bella took control of the Moslem quarters of Oran without opposition Sunday.

Flocking in triumphantly from Morocco, the troops hailed Ben Bella as the hero of Algeria's independence.

With western Algeria firmly in the hands of his supporters, Ben Bella left Cairo, apparently for Rabat. Presumably he planned to make a triumphant entry from Morocco.

From Algiers, moderate Premier Youssef ben Khedda sent two of his ministers to Rabat to seek a reconciliation between the rival factions.

Crowds Cheer 1,500 Troops

Nine companies of regular Algerian troops, totaling about 1,500 men, arrived on the outskirts of Oran, Algeria's second-largest city, late Saturday night shouting, "Ya Hya Ben Bella"—Long live Ben Bella. Their equipment included antitank rockets and heavy machine guns recently manufactured in Czechoslovakia.

As they moved into the Moslem quarters of the city, they were enthusiastically greeted by crowds raising cheer after cheer for Ben Bella.

Overnight, thousands of Ben Bella slogans were painted on walls throughout the Moslem quarters of the city. Boy Scouts and children's groups paraded with huge portraits of Ben Bella and chanting Ben Bella slogans.

The army unit set up its headquarters in an abandoned farmhouse on the southern outskirts of the city. An officer there refused any information, declaring he could not divulge "military secrets."

European Exodus Continues

In the European quarter, where 97 persons were killed in a street battle Thursday, French gendarmerie patrolled the streets by agreement with the Moslem authorities. There were no nationalist troops—and no Ben Bella slogans—in the European quarter. Most of the remaining inhabitants seemed to have made up their minds to leave the country after Thursday's fighting. Hundreds of them lined up again Sunday for plane seats to France.

French sources said about 120 Europeans were reported missing in the city. They are believed held in police stations as suspected terrorists of the defunct Secret Army Oorganization.

The new prefect — provincial governor — of Oran, Labouari Souia, broadcast a warning that the Moslem authorities would not tolerate possession of arms by private individuals. Souia, regarded as a supporter of Ben Bella, was nominated last week by the local command of the nationalist guerrilla army.

Thai Exodus Of 1,000 Marines Completed

UDON, Thailand (AP)—A company of U.S. Marine ground troops was flown from this sprawling camp to home base in Okinawa on Saturday night, completing the pullout of 1,000 Marines from the task force stationed here.

The withdrawal began last Monday on orders from President Kennedy after the United States noted a general lessening of tension along the Laotian border.

Most of the 1,000 consisted of air support units, including a squadron of jets and a helicopter squadron, which could be moved back quickly if the need arose.

The withdrawal leaves close to 2,000 Marines and 2,000 Army troops based in Thailand.

Builders Predict Cutback If Rights Order Issued

WASHINGTON (AP)—A presidential order barring racial discrimination in federally aided housing would cause a serious drop in new residential building, a home builders' survey indicated Sunday.

The study of builders across the country was made for the National Association of Home Builders by C-E-I-R, a private firm of economic consultants, and was transmitted to President Kennedy by the builders' association.

Forty-two per cent of the 6,000 builders who responded said a White House executive order outlawing discrimination in dwellings financed with federal mortgage insurance or veterans' loan guarantees would cause curtailment of their building plans.

Those expecting a cutback estimated a decline in volume of more than 50 per cent. One-third predicted a drop of more than 75 per cent.

The NAHB interpreted the findings as meaning about a one-third decline in new home construction and a loss of $3 billion to $6 billion, directly and indirectly, in the total national output. This was based on the 1962 expected production of 1.4 million houses and apartments.

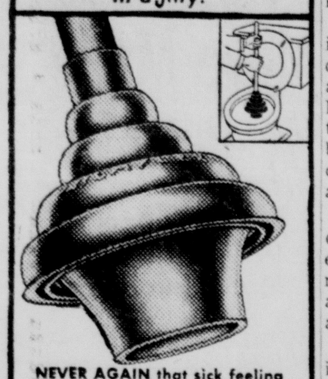

The builders' organization urged on Kennedy a "major, nationwide educational campaign to lessen misunderstanding and tension" and to foster "community acceptance of changing living patterns."

An executive order has existed, in various draft forms, almost since the day Kennedy took office. The President has delayed its issuance of the decree from civil rights organizations and integration groups. These have reminded Kennedy repeatedly that, during his campaign, he said former President Dwight D. Eisenhower could have issued such an order "with the stroke of a pen."

Decker Denies Viet Nam War Is Going Badly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. George H. Decker, U.S. Army chief of staff, said Sunday that a news story which described South Viet Nam military operations as confused and ineffective "does not reflect accurately the opinions of responsible Army authorities in Washington or in the field."

The Associated Press dispatch from Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., was based on interviews with American officers who have returned to the United States after serving as advisers to South Vietnamese forces in the battle against the Communist Viet Cong.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in an ABC-TV interview "Issues and Answers"—denied the Viet Nam war is going badly.

In response to a question, which did not refer to any particular news report, he said Viet Nam armed forces have taken the initiative and are actively running down Communist guerrilla forces.

Rusk said there have been improvements in supply and intelligence operations and in the Viet Nam command structure.

Decker's statement said: "An Associated Press story appearing in today's newspapers does not represent official Army thinking on the use of special forces, the quality of the South Viet Nam intelligence system, the size of the Military Assistance Advisory Group in South Viet Nam, and the scope of operations by the South Vietnamese. My views are based on recent, direct observation in Viet Nam.

"The story also is an inaccurate, second-hand account of the views of Maj. Gen. (William B.) Rosson (chief of U.S. Special Forces — guerrillas), the Army's principal staff officer in the special warfare area."

The chief of staff then quoted Rosson as saying: "Practically none of the subjects covered in this story were discussed by me with the writer.

"I am not angry over 'misuse' of Special Forces in Viet Nam. Although ideally these highly trained troops should be used exclusively in Special Forces activities it has been necessary to use some of them temporarily on basic training missions."

Prisoner Plunges 18 Feet To Freedom

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—James Howard Linn, 20, escaped from the second floor Detective Bureau interrogating room Saturday night by jumping out a window into a cement well 18 feet below, Montgomery County police reported.

A warrant has been issued charging him with both escape and burglary, they said.

At the time of escape, the police said, he was being questioned on charges of possessing burglary tools.

GOP Chairman Defends New Citizens Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman William E. Miller said Sunday the new National Republican Citizens Committee will cooperate closely with the party's regular organization and avoid duplication foreseen by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

In a letter to members of the regular national committee he heads, but without mentioning Goldwater's letter to him a week ago condemning the new citizens' group, Miller said: "The national committee must always encourage the broadest possible participation in party affairs."

Miller's letter was an attempt to clear up the confusion that followed a June 30 meeting on the farm of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower at Gettysburg, Pa.

The announced purpose of the meeting was to organize an All-Republican Conference to serve as a consultative organ for congressional leaders who make party policy based on the GOP platform.

The conference itself will not make policy, says Miller.

But newsmen covering the Gettysburg meeting said it consisted solely of speeches and nothing was said about organization of the conference or the citizens committee. News stories since then have said announcement of the citizens group was made in New York several hours after the Gettysburg meeting.

But Miller said Sunday the citizens committee had been formed before the Gettysburg meeting by leaders of former citizen and volunteer groups and Eisenhower had agreed to become its honorary chairman.

"Representatives of this new group were therefore included in our All-Republican Conference," Miller's letter said.

Last week the regular national committee and Eisenhower said the duties of the citizens group would be mainly organizational and money-raising.

Fire Destroys Airpax Plant At Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, (AP)—Fire destroyed the Cambridge plant of Airpax Electronics Inc. Saturday night. No one was injured.

Ten fire companies fought the blaze for four hours into the early morning, and one crew was still on the job Sunday—wetting down the smoldering wreckage and pulling down walls.

Plant Manager William F. Cairns Jr. said Sunday he was mystified about the cause of the fire. He added: "We're going to reactivate the division as fast as it is humanly possible."

Cairns said the plant employing 28 persons was working on both civilian and defense projects, including electronic components used in missiles. The firm also has plants in North Ridge, Calif., and Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The one-story, cinder - block building — 10 years old — has 35,000 square feet of manufacturing space. It is situated about three miles east of Cambridge, just off U.S. 50.

Firemen with 18 pieces of equipment were handicapped by lack of water. Osvrey Pritchett, chief of the Cambridge Rescue Fire Company who was on the job all night, said water had to be brought in by tank truck, some of it from as far away as two to three miles.

State Police said the fire apparently broke out in a shipping room and was discovered by a night watchman about 10:20 p.m. It burned until after 2 a.m. despite the efforts of eight fire companies from Dorchester County and two from neighboring Talbot County.

Poison Attempt By Reds Charged

LONDON (AP) — A Nigerian who has been studying medicine in Czechoslovakia for 3½ years claimed in an interview Sunday that Czech security police in Prague tried to poison him.

The Sunday Times quoted Christopher Obiesili Anwadike, 31, as saying that since reaching London last month he has been trailed by agents of the Czechoslovak government who have tried to persuade him to return to Prague. The paper said he had asked Scotland Yard for protection. A Yard spokesman declined to confirm or deny that statement.

After studying in London and Dublin, Anwadike obtained a U.N. scholarship and went to Prague in February 1959, to begin a six-year course in medicine.

C. E. Bryan, Pioneer Phone Official, Dies

BALTIMORE (AP) — Funeral services for Charles E. Bryan, a telephone company official for 60 years, will be held Tuesday near Havre de Grace.

Bryan, also a pioneering orchardist, died Friday night at Johns Hopkins Hospital. He was 89.

A native of Washington, Bryan became commercial superintendent of the Maryland Telephone Co. in 1901 and its vice president and general manager several years later.

He was a member of the executive committee of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. of Maryland, the successor to Maryland Telephone, for many years, and was a director until a year ago when he resigned.

Youth Pries Off Chain, Escapes From Hospital

LA PLATA, Md. (AP)—A youth who gave his name as Douglas Gaither, 19, of Washington, D. C., pried loose a chain to a leg cuff which was attached to a hospital bed and escaped from Physicians Memorial Hospital here early Sunday, Sheriff Francis Garner of Charles County, Md., reported.

Garner said the youth was taken to the hospital for treatment after being shot in both legs last Monday night by Vincent Swann, proprietor of the Moonlight Inn at Waldorf, Md. The boy was being held on a charge of breaking and entering the inn, the sheriff said.

He said the youth broke off a steel bar attached to a night stand as well as a crank on the hospital bed and pried the chain from the cuff which was attached to the bedpost. Garner said the youth then left through a window of the first-floor room, dropping about eight feet to the ground.

Miller Says Rival Camp Divided Over Medicare

EASTON, Md. (AP)—Edward T. Miller, Republican candidate for U.S. senator, claimed Sunday that two members of the Democratic ticket are at odds over federal medical aid for the aged.

He said he considers the existing Kerr-Mills form of aid sound and adequate.

Miller, former U.S. representative from the nine Eastern Shore counties, said his Democratic opponent, Daniel B. Brewster, and Democratic Gov. Tawes have taken different positions on the issue.

"Gov. Tawes said the Kerr-Mills law was getting along fairly well in Maryland and that he would not make any official comment about President Kennedy's medical care program at this time," Miller stated.

"On the other," he said Brewster, "has openly endorsed the King - Anderson compulsory approach to medical care. Apparently, he feels that he knows more about Maryland's needs than the man who heads his ticket."

"I am distressed to note that my opponent supports a concept which is so alien to the traditional free choice in the free state of Maryland." Miller said.

"I believe that the Kerr-Mills law, with its strictly voluntary character, hews to the history of Maryland with its warm concern for those who cannot care for themselves due to age or economic status.

"It will supplement, not supplant, individual voluntary health insurance which has made tremendous strides in the past decade."

LA PLATA, Md. (AP)—A youth who gave his name as Douglas Gaither, 19, of Washington, D. C., pried loose a chain to a leg cuff which was attached to a hospital bed and escaped from Physicians Memorial Hospital here early Sunday, Sheriff Francis Garner of Charles County, Md., reported.

Garner said the youth was taken to the hospital for treatment after being shot in both legs last Monday night by Vincent Swann, proprietor of the Moonlight Inn at Waldorf, Md. The boy was being held on a charge of breaking and entering the inn, the sheriff said.

He said the youth broke off a steel bar attached to a night stand as well as a crank on the hospital bed and pried the chain from the cuff which was attached to the bedpost. Garner said the youth then left through a window of the first-floor room, dropping about eight feet to the ground.

Miller Says Rival Camp Divided Over Medicare

EASTON, Md. (AP)—Edward T. Miller, Republican candidate for U.S. senator, claimed Sunday that two members of the Democratic ticket are at odds over federal medical aid for the aged.

He said he considers the existing Kerr-Mills form of aid sound and adequate.

Miller, former U.S. representative from the nine Eastern Shore counties, said his Democratic opponent, Daniel B. Brewster, and Democratic Gov. Tawes have taken different positions on the issue.

"Gov. Tawes said the Kerr-Mills law was getting along fairly well in Maryland and that he would not make any official comment about President Kennedy's medical care program at this time," Miller stated.

"On the other," he said Brewster, "has openly endorsed the King-Anderson compulsory approach to medical care. Apparently, he feels that he knows more about Maryland's needs than the man who heads his ticket."

"I am distressed to note that my opponent supports a concept which is so alien to the traditional free choice in the free state of Maryland." Miller said.

"I believe that the Kerr-Mills law, with its strictly voluntary character, hews to the history of Maryland with its warm concern for those who cannot care for themselves due to age or economic status.

"It will supplement, not supplant, individual voluntary health insurance which has made tremendous strides in the past decade."

Fire Destroys Airpax Plant At Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, (AP)—Fire destroyed the Cambridge plant of Airpax Electronics Inc. Saturday night. No one was injured.

Ten fire companies fought the blaze for four hours into the early morning, and one crew was still on the job Sunday—wetting down the smoldering wreckage and pulling down walls.

Plant Manager William F. Cairns Jr. said Sunday he was mystified about the cause of the fire. He added: "We're going to reactivate the division as fast as it is humanly possible."

Cairns said the plant employing 28 persons was working on both civilian and defense projects, including electronic components used in missiles. The firm also has plants in North Ridge, Calif., and Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The one-story, cinder - block building — 10 years old — has 35,000 square feet of manufacturing space. It is situated about three miles east of Cambridge, just off U.S. 50.

Firemen with 18 pieces of equipment were handicapped by lack of water. Osvrey Pritchett, chief of the Cambridge Rescue Fire Company who was on the job all night, said water had to be brought in by tank truck, some of it from as far away as two to three miles.

State Police said the fire apparently broke out in a shipping room and was discovered by a night watchman about 10:20 p.m. It burned until after 2 a.m. despite the efforts of eight fire companies from Dorchester County and two from neighboring Talbot County.

Poison Attempt By Reds Charged

LONDON (AP) — A Nigerian who has been studying medicine in Czechoslovakia for 3½ years claimed in an interview Sunday that Czech security police in Prague tried to poison him.

The Sunday Times quoted Christopher Obiesili Anwadike, 31, as saying that since reaching London last month he has been trailed by agents of the Czechoslovak government who have tried to persuade him to return to Prague. The paper said he had asked Scotland Yard for protection. A Yard spokesman declined to confirm or deny that statement.

After studying in London and Dublin, Anwadike obtained a U.N. scholarship and went to Prague in February 1959, to begin a six-year course in medicine.

Towering Space Needle symbolizes future.

Natural Gas Pavilion contains exhibits by gas industry.

Visitors are whisked from downtown Seattle by monorail.

Graceful arches mark U.S. Science Exhibit.

It's Fair In Seattle

The 600-foot Space Needle topped by a 40-foot natural gas flame. The Coliseum with its preview of the next century. The United States Science Exhibit featuring a simulated trip through space. A monorail to speed visitors to and from the Fairgrounds. Displays from all around the world.

These are a few of the exciting features of the World's Fair in Seattle to last through October 21. When you are at the Fair, take a few days to see the majestic mountains, beautiful lakes, magnificent rivers, and unexcelled coastline as well as the vast interior of the Pacific Northwest — Washington, Oregon, and Idaho.

El Paso Natural Gas Company is proud to serve this prosperous, growing area and is proud of the key role that gas is playing in supplying energy to the industries and homes of the Pacific Northwest. Natural gas' prominent place in the Pacific Northwest is dramatized by its part in the Fair: here gas is used to heat and cool the buildings, to cook the more than 20 million meals that will be served, and serves as a symbol of progress in the huge flare atop the Space Needle.

For literature on the World's Fair write El Paso Natural Gas Company, 2107 Northern Life Tower, Seattle, Washington.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I usually go along with your advice but when it comes to teenagers offering their bus seats to adults, I say you're all wet. I used to be one of those chivalrous suckers but I learned my lesson. I wouldn't give up my seat to a woman if she was carrying a birthday cake with 100 candles on it. Here is why:

When I was a high school junior I got on a bus to go to school. It got very crowded. A woman whose weight tripled mine was hanging on a strap right in front of me. Se was having a tough time balancing herself. Every time the bus stopped she flopped into my lap or dug her spiked heels into my feet.

Finally I got up and said, "Would you care to sit down?" She hollered at the top of her voice so everyone in the bus could hear, "You fresh little punk. I'll bet I'm not 10 years older than you are. The nerve of you trying to make me out an old woman just so you can look like a hero." With that she gave me a shove and I fell back into my seat. Everyone on the bus roared. I was so embarrassed I got off at the next stop and walked the rest of the way to school.

—EX-SIR GALAHAD

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I do not agree with you that students should offer their seats to adults on buses. Do you know what it's like, trying to carry 15 pounds of books and a cello? Well I do because I did it for four years.

A few months ago I got up and gave my seat to an elderly woman who reminded me of my great-grandmother. She seemed very grateful. After a few blocks I was having trouble managing my gear so I asked the woman if she would mind holding my cello. She replied, "Do the best you can with it, Girlie, I'm going to a party and I don't want my dress to get wrinkled."

That did it for me.

— CURED

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a college student who has taken the bus to my 9 o'clock class for three years. Whenever I'm lucky enough to get a seat I stay put, open up a book, and don't bother to look to see who is hanging from a strap. I couldn't care less.

Half the adults on the buses are women who are running downtown to shop. They seem to think they must get to the stores before the doors are opened. If they'd use their heads and stay home until the rush hour is over they would HAVE a seat. But no, they rush downtown during the busiest time so they can smash themselves like sardines in a can.

These same nitwits can be seen going home about 5 o'clock with big shopping bags just when the students and office workers are calling it a day.

I've had it from these bargain-hunting housewives. If they have enough strength to pound the pavement for eight hours, they can stand up in the bus both ways.

—JAKE

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our high school Family Living Class (summer session) discussed your column "Should Teenagers Surrender Bus Seats to Adults?"

You may be interested to learn that one-third of the class (numbering 27 students) saw no reason for teenagers to offer their seats to older people. Their thinking was: "We paid for the seats and are entitled to them."

I'm a teenager and I was shocked at this attitude. I think it's a clue to why so many kids are in trouble today. Children are raised with no respect for mother, father, teacher, law, or anyone. Of course the parents are to blame. If I sat on a bus while an older person stood, and my dad or mom found out about it I'd get such a walloping I wouldn't be able to sit down anyplace for a week.

—OLD-FASHIONED SQUARE

DEAR SQUARE: Thank you for saving the day with your noble defense of old-fashioned manners. Chivalry is not dead, honey, it's just having a tough time breathing.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New Hampshire Greets 'Riders'

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — New Hampshire Sunday welcomed its first "reverse freedom riders" with Yankee hospitality.

The welcome was for five Negro men who stepped off a bus here from New Orleans with high hopes of employment and warm words for the segregationists who paid their one-way fares.

The five were met by state health and welfare Commissioner James J. Barry on behalf of Gov. Wesley Powell. The Republican governor recently had been the target of criticism from local sources and by New Orleans segregationist George Singelmann

The arrivals were: David Pickens, 23, a laundry worker; Pierre Thomson, 23, a medical technician; Jim Henry Johnson, 22, a sugar refinery worker; Flemon Conner, 41, a construction worker, and Mosel Armstrong, 35, a cement truck driver.

National Guard General Surprised

CAMP A.P. HILL, Va. (AP)—Maj. Gen. William C. Purnell of Baltimore, soon to retire as commanding officer of the National Guard's 29th Division, received two surprises Saturday in addition to a noisy and affectionate goodbye from his men.

One thing he didn't expect was the presentation of a 35-year service bar by Maryland Gov. J Millard Tawes. The other happened when three helicopters of the 29th Aviation Company dipped in salute before the reviewing stand, trailing these signs:

"God Bless You," "We'll Miss You," and "So Long, Boss."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I usually go along with your advice but when it comes to teenagers offering their bus seats to adults, I say you're all wet. I used to be one of those chivalrous suckers but I learned my lesson. I wouldn't give up my seat to a woman if she was carrying a birthday cake with 100 candles on it. Here is why:

When I was a high school junior I got on a bus to go to school. It got very crowded. A woman whose weight tripled mine was hanging on a strap right in front of me. Se was having a tough time balancing herself. Every time the bus stopped she flopped into my lap or dug her spiked heels into my feet.

Finally I got up and said, "Would you care to sit down?" She hollered at the top of her voice so everyone in the bus could hear, "You fresh little punk. I'll bet I'm not 10 years older than you are. The nerve of you trying to make me out an old woman just so you can look like a hero." With that she gave me a shove and I fell back into my seat. Everyone on the bus roared. I was so embarrassed I got off at the next stop and walked the rest of the way to school.

—EX-SIR GALAHAD

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I do not agree with you that students should offer their seats to adults on buses. Do you know what it's like, trying to carry 15 pounds of books and a cello? Well I do because I did it for four years.

A few months ago I got up and gave my seat to an elderly woman who reminded me of my great-grandmother. She seemed very grateful. After a few blocks I was having trouble managing my gear so I asked the woman if she would mind holding my cello. She replied, "Do the best you can with it, Girlie, I'm going to a party and I don't want my dress to get wrinkled."

That did it for me.

— CURED

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a college student who has taken the bus to my 9 o'clock class for three years. Whenever I'm lucky enough to get a seat I stay put, open up a book, and don't bother to look to see who is hanging from a strap. I couldn't care less.

Half the adults on the buses are women who are running downtown to shop. They seem to think they must get to the stores before the doors are opened. If they'd use their heads and stay home until the rush hour is over they would HAVE a seat. But no, they rush downtown during the busiest time so they can smash themselves like sardines in a can.

These same nitwits can be seen going home about 5 o'clock with big shopping bags just when the students and office workers are calling it a day.

I've had it from these bargain-hunting housewives. If they have enough strength to pound the pavement for eight hours, they can stand up in the bus both ways.

—JAKE

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our high school Family Living Class (summer session) discussed your column "Should Teenagers Surrender Bus Seats to Adults?"

You may be interested to learn that one-third of the class (numbering 27 students) saw no reason for teenagers to offer their seats to older people. Their thinkwas: "We paid for the seats and are entitled to them."

I'm a teenager and I was shocked at this attitude. I think it's a clue to why so many kids are in trouble today. Children are raised with no respect for mother, father, teacher, law, or anyone. Of course the parents are to blame. If I sat on a bus while an older person stood, and my dad or mom found out about it I'd get such a walloping I wouldn't be able to sit down anyplace for a week.

—OLD-FASHIONED SQUARE

DEAR SQUARE: Thank you for saving the day with your noble defense of old-fashioned manners. Chivalry is not dead, honey, it's just having a tough time breathing.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New Hampshire Greets 'Riders'

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — New Hampshire Sunday welcomed its first "reverse freedom riders" with Yankee hospitality.

The welcome was for five Negro men who stepped off a bus here from New Orleans with high hopes of employment and warm words for the segregationists who paid their one-way fares.

The five were met by state health and welfare Commissioner James J. Barry on behalf of Gov. Wesley Powell. The Republican governor recently had been the target of criticism from local sources and by New Orleans segregationist George Singelmann

The arrivals were: David Pickens, 23, a laundry worker; Pierre Thomson, 23, a medical technician; Jim Henry Johnson, 22, a sugar refinery worker; Flemon Conner, 41, a construction worker, and Mosel Armstrong, 35, a cement truck driver.

National Guard General Surprised

CAMP A.P. HILL, Va. (AP)—Maj. Gen. William C. Purnell of Baltimore, soon to retire as commanding officer of the National Guard's 29th Division, received two surprises Saturday in addition to a noisy and affectionate goodbye from his men.

One thing he didn't expect was the presentation of a 35-year service bar by Maryland Gov. J Millard Tawes. The other happened when three helicopters of the 29th Aviation Company dipped in salute before the reviewing stand, trailing these signs:

"God Bless You," "We'll Miss You," and "So Long, Boss."

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Britain plans to send 30 volunteer college graduates here next year to teach school. Unlike the U.S. Peace Corps, the volunteers will be financed primarily by private British organizations.

Verbal Battle Features Fight On Medical Care

West Virginians Unable To Agree

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Welfare Director W. Bernard Smith and the State Medical Association Sunday kept up their verbal battle over the state's medical care for the aged program.

Smith issued a lengthy statement Sunday saying an earlier report on the program by the association includes "totally false information and distorted figures."

Dr. D. E. Greenelth, president of the association, said he had not seen a copy of Smith's report but said it would appear that "it is little more than a rehash of the verbiage that has been issued" from Smith's department over the past year.

In his statement, Smith detailed the history of the state medicare program and the financial problems it has run into, including the cutback administered last fall.

Smith said prior to the cutback the caseload was running much higher than anticipated and the program was costing about $1 million a month by November.

He said if the cutback hadn't been ordered the program would have gone bankrupt and many doctors, hospitals and druggists would not have been paid.

Smith also said he did not feel that he would have sought the cooperation of the participating groups before ordering the cutback.

"Experience dictates there was no need nor was there time to seek cooperation," he said. "Expenditures had to be cut sharply and quickly to maintain a balance in the fund. Besides, past meetings with participating groups nearly always included requests for increased fees."

Smith said he felt the only way the program could work in West Virginia is with unlimited funds and said he felt the social security approach to the problem of health care for the aged is the best solution.

"It is evident that by the timing of his release that Mr. Smith has again allowed himself to be the victim of coercion from politicians in Washington who are pulling out all stops toward enactment of the King - Anderson bill," Greeneltch said.

"We have proved in West Virginia that the Kerr-Mills (MAA) program is doing the job for which it was intended and it is also true that the MAA program is operating well within the present available funds appropriated by the Legislature."

Verbal Battle Features Fight On Medical Care

West Virginians Unable To Agree

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Welfare Director W. Bernard Smith and the State Medical Association Sunday kept up their verbal battle over the state's medical care for the aged program.

Smith issued a lengthy statement Sunday saying an earlier report on the program by the association includes "totally false information and distorted figures."

Dr. D. E. Greenelth, president of the association, said he had not seen a copy of Smith's report but said it would appear that "it is little more than a rehash of the verbiage that has been issued" from Smith's department over the past year.

In his statement, Smith detailed the history of the state medicare program and the financial problems it has run into, including the cutback administered last fall.

Smith said prior to the cutback the caseload was running much higher than anticipated and the program was costing about $1 million a month by November.

He said if the cutback hadn't been ordered the program would have gone bankrupt and many doctors, hospitals and druggists would not have been paid.

Smith also said he did not feel that he would have sought the cooperation of the participating groups before ordering the cutback.

"Experience dictates there was no need nor was there time to seek cooperation," he said. "Expenditures had to be cut sharply and quickly to maintain a balance in the fund. Besides, past meetings with participating groups nearly always included requests for increased fees."

Smith said he felt the only way the program could work in West Virginia is with unlimited funds and said he felt the social security approach to the problem of health care for the aged is the best solution.

"It is evident that by the timing of his release that Mr. Smith has again allowed himself to be the victim of coercion from politicians in Washington who are pulling out all stops toward enactment of the King - Anderson bill," Greeneltch said.

"We have proved in West Virginia that the Kerr-Mills (MAA) program is doing the job for which it was intended and it is also true that the MAA program is operating well within the present available funds appropriated by the Legislature."

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

There Are Rites For Restaurant Dining . . .

. . . and your date or your host had better know them, for he is the one who takes the lead in carrying them out gracefully. The only time you take the lead is when you enter the dining room and when you leave. At these times it's proper for you to follow the captain or the waiter while your escort follows you.

Once you are seated, you are a guest, happily endowed with the prerogative to do absolutely nothing until you get the signal from your companion . . . nothing, that is, except to make pleasant dinner-hour conversation with him and with fellow-guests at the same table. Even if the waiter hands you a menu immediately, you needn't study it until your date indicates that it is time to order. In fact, you shouldn't (hungry though you may be); you simply set it down on the table until the proper moment.

Your date does all the talking. He asks you your preferences, he suggests certain dishes, he handles all the conversation necessary with the waiter. Anything you wish to say to the waiter should be directed through your date.

The one time the host may suggest that each guest do his own ordering is when there are many at the table. Then, custom turns practical, to avoid confusion, and you do your own talking.

Most well-trained waiters make it easy for the host to remember his exacting role. Rarely will they address a guest directly. But if a waiter does happen to speak to you, it's only polite to answer him.

Having the host as spokesman is usually no problem at all, as long as everyone knows and accepts the fact. But having him play interpreter, too, can be tricky whenever the menu switches from plain English. If the host cannot translate foreign terms for his guests, he should have the good sense to stuff his pride in his pocket and ask the waiter to explain. This is nothing to be embarrassed about and no truly courteous waiter will be patronizing about it to his patrons.

Once you begin dining out frequently, however, it's handy to know the most common words in the gourmet glossary. See if you can't memorize this short sampling in time for your next dinner-date:

A la Russe — the addition of Russian dressing.

A l'Espagnole—a dish cooked with tomatoes and garlic, sometimes saffron.

Bisque—cream soup made from shellfish.

Chantilly — accurately, whipped cream.

Florentine—creamed spinach is included in the dish.

Meuniere — cooked in butter, served with lemon.

Mornay—cheese-flavored cream sauce.

Potage — thick soup, often of potatoes, usually creamed.

Puree—mashed.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

There Are Rites For Restaurant Dining . . .

. . . and your date or your host had better know them, for he is the one who takes the lead in carrying them out gracefully. The only time you take the lead is when you enter the dining room and when you leave. At these times it's proper for you to follow the captain or the waiter while your escort follows you.

Once you are seated, you are a guest, happily endowed with the prerogative to do absolutely nothing until you get the signal from your companion . . . nothing, that is, except to make pleasant dinner-hour conversation with him and with fellow-guests at the same table. Even if the waiter hands you a menu immediately, you needn't study it until your date indicates that it is time to order. In fact, you shouldn't (hungry though you may be); you simply set it down on the table until the proper moment.

Your date does all the talking. He asks you your preferences, he suggests certain dishes, he handles all the conversation necessary with the waiter. Anything you wish to say to the waiter should be directed through your date.

The one time the host may suggest that each guest do his own ordering is when there are many at the table. Then, custom turns practical, to avoid confusion, and you do your own talking.

Most well-trained waiters make it easy for the host to remember his exacting role. Rarely will they address a guest directly. But if a waiter does happen to speak to you, it's only polite to answer him.

Having the host as spokesman is usually no problem at all, as long as everyone knows and accepts the fact. But having him play interpreter, too, can be tricky whenever the menu switches from plain English. If the host cannot translate foreign terms for his guests, he should have the good sense to stuff his pride in his pocket and ask the waiter to explain. This is nothing to be embarrassed about and no truly courteous waiter will be patronizing about it to his patrons.

Once you begin dining out frequently, however, it's handy to know the most common words in the gourmet glossary. See if you can't memorize this short sampling in time for your next dinner-date:

A la Russe — the addition of Russian dressing.

A l'Espagnole—a dish cooked with tomatoes and garlic, sometimes saffron.

Bisque—cream soup made from shellfish.

Chantilly — accurately, whipped cream.

Florentine—creamed spinach is included in the dish.

Meuniere — cooked in butter, served with lemon.

Mornay—cheese-flavored cream sauce.

Potage — thick soup, often of potatoes, usually creamed.

Puree—mashed.

An Anniversary To Celebrate?

A hundred years ago President Lincoln signed the act establishing the first federal income tax (the top rate was five per cent) and the Internal Revenue Service thinks the anniversary merits recognition.

Why it thinks so is not altogether clear, for the income tax lasted only a few years after the Civil War. Revived in 1894, it was declared unconstitutional the next year. Not until 1913, when the 16th Amendment was adopted, did the income tax begin an uninterrupted existence. No one can deny that it has made up for all those lost years.

In what surely must be the year's understatement, IRS says it is "not likely to become the most popular of federal agencies." Nevertheless, it insists, it is one of the most essential and is "performing with noteworthy success" and effectiveness. More modestly, IRS attributes much of this success to the honesty and patriotism of American citizens and their more or less voluntary compliance.

Few seek to evade their taxes and the rich and powerful in the United States cannot ignore the tax laws, which is not, says IRS, the case in "many nations." Perhaps it was not quite tactful of IRS to bring this up, because among the nations that let the rich get away with it are some that are receiving, or hope to receive, substantial sums of American taxpayers' money.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Welfare State

George S. Montgomery, Jr., a man of broad economic knowledge, writes me:

"To challenge your thesis (that the people voted for the Welfare State) would, of course, require a volume in which the evidence pro and con would reach into factors involved in the respective elections. Against your thesis, I would point instances that Roosevelt, personally, advocated economy in government during his 1932 campaign. I recall vividly his proposal to slash 25% off a list of Federal expenditures.

Montgomery then gives as evidence "The Dunn Survey" which says:

"In contrast, while the number of beneficiaries of such Democratic policies increased by millions there was no increase in Democratic vote. The Democratic vote for President was as follows (in millions):

1936 — 27.5
1940 — 27.2
1944 — 25.6
1948 — 26.4
(incl. Truman, Thurmond, Wallace)
1952 — 27.3

"Thus, if Democratic policies gained the great labor, farm and welfare votes Republican leaders taught their followers to believe, Democrats necessarily lost one vote for every vote gained. In addition, a smaller and smaller proportion of the population of voting age voted Democratic."

The answer, of course, is that the Democrats managed to elect all their candidates for the Presidency from 1932 to 1960, except Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose program and conduct in office in no manner lessened the trend toward the Welfare State. Of the current Republican candidates for President, Richard Nixon, Nelson Rockefeller and Barry Goldwater, only Goldwater really opposes the Welfare State.

President Eisenhower was elected as a military hero. It is only since he has become an ex-President that he has assumed effective leadership. When he was President, he permitted his party to fall into the hands of opportunists who played for votes without principle.

When, however, former President Eisenhower speaks of the Party of Business he needs to define his terms. There are all sorts of businesses in this country:

1. There is the "overhead" business, namely, banks, insurance companies, lawyers, engineering firms, brokers, etc.

Although many of the individuals so engaged have considerable prestige, they are far removed from other and equally or more important branches of the business community. Often their interests are remotely related to the welfare of business and sometimes their earnings are greater when business is in trouble than in good times. Sometimes this group includes the "stuffed shirt" elements, those who fear to be dispossessed by the course of events.

2. There are those who operate the very large units of industry in which the ownership is so diffuse as to be separated altogether from management. These big industries are, in effect, managed by vast bureaucracies, very much like government bureaucracies. They engage in an enormous amount of paper work. Their management is often in the hands of salaried men who only own such equities as they obtain through stock options or deferred payments. Some of them invest their savings in the shares of their companies, but the amounts are small.

In the past, many such persons enjoyed large expense accounts which they spent and therefore kept money in circulation. Anyone who knows anything about business knows that it costs money to earn money. The rigidity of the Internal Revenue Service on the subject of expense accounts has undobutedly had an unfavorable effect on business and on the managerial element.

3. The entreprenur type of businessman is really all that is left in our mixed economy of the old-type capitalist who made this the largest productive area on Earth. He works with risk capital. He begs and borrows to organize new industries and to modernize old existing ones. He builds new plants and creates new enterprises. He is a constructive citizen.

He suffers today from the anti-risk attitude of the SEC, the New York Exchange, the banks and the law — all designed to keep our economy sure and static. Often, he finds it sensible to go abroad to borrow money in countries where risk is still recognized as a proper function of the capitalist system.

4. The small businessman represents the largest unit of production and distribution. He is being squeezed between the big businesses and the enormous and costly load of bookkeeping that the government places upon him.

Which of these categories of businessmen does the government consult? It is usually the first category — the very pleasant and sociable stuffed shirts who in the business world are recognized as such.

Necessary Togetherness

'United States Of Europe' Idea is Confusing

By David Lawrence

GENEVA—President Kennedy's address at Independence Hall on July 4 was a bit confusing to Europeans. They couldn't tell whether he was forecasting a United States of Europe along the lines of his own country or whether, despite a loose use of words, he was trying to indicate that Europe might well have a federation or alliance as each country retained its sovereignty.

Mr. Kennedy was on firm ground as he extolled the idea of independence and as he rejoiced in the recently intensified movement away from colonialism throughout the world. He was logical, too, when he spoke of a declaration of "interdependence," for this concept means a "partnership" or strengthened alliance as between Europe and America.

The puzzlement developed, however, when Mr. Kennedy carried his analogy further, as he said:

"As apt and applicable as the Declaration of Independence is today, we would do well to honor the other historic document drafted in this hall, the Constitution of the United States.

"For it stressed not independence, but interdependence; not the individual liberty of one, but the indivisible liberty of all."

But has the Constitution—as interpreted by the Supreme Court of the United States in recent years—stressed the "interdependence" of the several states of the Union, or has it emphasized the dominance of and control of the states by the national government?

Among Europeans, moreover, this will be interpreted as a forecast by Mr. Kennedy that the "Common Market" organization is the beginning of something patterned after the American Union. For later on in the same speech, the President said:

"It would be premature at this time to do more than indicate the high regard with which we view the formation of this partnership. The first order of business is for our European friends to go forward in forming the more perfect union which will someday make this partnership possible. A great new edifice is not built overnight. It was eleven years from the Declaration of Independence to the writing of the Constitution. The construction of workable federal institutions required still another generation."

Is the President really predicting a United States of Europe with a Constitution like that in America? Do the peoples of Europe today have any such idea in mind as they applaud, for economic purposes, the building of the "Common Market?" Do the people of France or Britain, for example, intend respectively to give up their independence and sovereignty as the various states of the American Union have been forced to give these up through decisions of the country's highest court? Or is it contemplated that each member country will continue to run its domestic affairs and will simply give up something of its sovereignty insofar as military and foreign policies are concerned?

Plainly, the emphasis in Europe today is on the financial and commercial advantages of a trade union which can deal singly with the United States and other countries on tariffs. But certain countries like Sweden and Switzerland are making it plain that they do not mean to go in for any "political association." The idea of a United States of Europe has its champions in all parts of Europe, but the proposal could hardly win a majority vote in any country at this time. In fact, reiteration of prophesies that the "Common Market" is merely the forerunner of another internal union like that of America means in many quarters the putting up of roadblocks to an endorsement of the "Common Market" organization in various countries, including Great Britain.

Obviously it is better for America to deal with a single entity in trade matters than with diverse governments. That is why perhaps Mr. Kennedy is boosting unity in all its aspects. He said in his Fourth of July speech:

"We will be prepared to discuss with a united Europe the ways and means of forming a concrete Atlantic partnership, a Mutually beneficial partnership between the new union now emerging in Europe and the old American Union founded here 175 years ago."

Realistically, however, General de Gaulle, for instance, hasn't any notion whatsoever of transferring the sovereignty of France to a political union like that which prevails in America. Nor would any French President or Premier dare to advocate such a course.

External confederation is all that the majority of Europeans have in mind today. Thus, the London "Times," in commenting on the Kennedy speech, emphasized the idea of an "alliance" and said that the President is seeking "a genuine partnership based on growing equality and shared responsibility." The editorial expressed gratitude that the United States isn't trying in any way "to grab the scheme" of a "Common Market."

For, in truth, the United States doesn't regard the "Common Market" as a rival and wants it to succeed because it can become the basis for a better trade relationship and perhaps even for a stronger military alliance that would relieve America of some of its financial burdens of defense and, especially the balance-of-payments deficit.

But American policymakers and Presidential speechwriters would do better not to place these objectives in jeopardy by painting for Europe the picture of another United States where a written Constitution has gradually been superseded by periodic decisions of the Supreme Court. For once upon a time the Tenth Amendment pledged that all rights not specifically delegated to the national government would be "reserved to the states respectively, or to the people." That pledge, however, has been brushed aside by decisions of the court as not in the "public interest." The states are no longer "interdependent." They are dependent colonies of the federal government.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

REPUBLICAN THUNDER — Who ever heard of a Democrat delivering a "Lincoln Day" speech? For many years now, Republican politicians have used the occasion of Abraham Lincoln's birthday to raise funds for their party at political rallies across the country.

It came as a shock and surprise, therefore, for GOP members of the Senate and House to learn that the Democratic Party is trying to "kidnap" their greatest political hero.

A couple of Indiana's Democratic political figures were successful in pushing through Congress a bill setting up the "Lincoln Boyhood National Memorial" in Spencer County, Indiana.

The area will be a new park embracing the land where the first GOP president spent his years as a boy and young man and where his mother, Nancy Hanks, is buried.

The Democrats who successfully sponsored the legislation are Sen. Vance Hartke and Rep. Winfield Denton, both from Indiana. It was signed into law by a Democratic President, John F. Kennedy. And Hartke and Interior Secretary Stewart Udall will be the principal speakers at dedication ceremonies this month.

Republicans belatedly have become aroused at what they consider a brazen attempt on the part of Democrats to "capture" a GOP idol. But the Democrats reply that the GOP gave up any rights it may have had by default; that Republicans paid no attention to creating a national park at the historic site for a hundred years.

At a recent press conference, House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck, also of Indiana, grumbled, "They'll never get away with it." But it appears there's little he or other GOP leaders can do about it now.

Americans Have Made Many Big Advances Against Communism

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — As the nation celebrated the 186th anniversary of its birth last week, some interesting events were happening around the world for which the American people can take some credit.

Here are some of them:

EVENT NO. 1 — Italy repaid $180,000,000 of Marshall Plan loans. This didn't make headlines, but was an important tribute both to the energy of the Italian people — once verging on Communism — and to the generosity and vision of the American people.

At Christmas, 1947, I was in Rome with the Friendship Train when Premier Alcide de Gasperi had to wear a threadbare overcoat at lunch. There was no coal, and the room was freezing. There's been quite a change since then, and the United States helped bring it about.

EVENT NO. 2 — De Gaulle and Adenauer, heads of two countries which have been in the death throes of world war twice in this century, conferred together in Paris. This is one of the great milestones for peace.

In the winter of 1953, I talked to both Mayor Ernst Reuter of Berlin and Mayor Pierre de Gaulle of Paris about the idea of exchanging visits in order to build friendship between France and Germany. They were both willing, but de Gaulle hung back because French bitterness against Germany was too strong. That was only nine years ago.

But last week, wounds had healed to the point that the Chancellor of Germany and the President of France conferred in a city which once chafed under German occupation.

EVENT NO. 3 — Last week, elections in Japan strengthened the hand of a pro-American Prime Minister who opposes Communism. Japan has become one of the most democratic nations in the free World, and American statesmanship helped in that achievement.

EVENT NO. 4 — West Germany and East Germany, despite the Berlin wall, have been trading together and talking about credits to be advanced by capitalist West Germany to Communist East Germany. As these two areas get together on everyday business — and they are — they are less likely to drag the world into war.

EVENT NO. 5 — The Presidents of Venezuela and Costa Rica led a move toward a tougher policy against Cuban Communism. President Betancourt of Venezuela was banned from the United States by the Eisenhower Administration as a Communist; while the former President of Costa Rica, Pepi Figueres, had his wires tapped by the CIA because they considered him leaning toward Communism. But both governments have been our strongest supporters in combating Castroism.

EVENT NO. 6 — President Kennedy was given a tumultuous welcome in Mexico City. It was only a few years ago that resentment against the USA in Mexico was such that a U.S. President could not safely be invited there. The enthusiastic reception to Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy demonstrated how relations have improved.

EVENT NO. 7 — The Undersecretary of State for Italy, Giuseppe Lupis, told friends in Washington last week how Italy has made its gains against Communism.

"At every election between 1948 and 1958," he said, "the Christian Democrats lost ground, and the Communists gained ground.

"Fanfani (now Premier) had long thought that the way to beat the Communists was to woo the Socialists away from them. It took some time, and he had a lot of opposition from within his own Christian Democrat Party, but Fanfani has now done exactly that.

"And at last month's elections, for the first time the Communists took a bad defeat. So did the Neo-Fascists. They spent all kinds of money, but the extremists of both the left and right lost. The middle and left-of-center parties scored a great victory.

"The way to stop Communism," concluded Italy's Undersecretary of State, himself a Social Democrat, "is to win over the Socialists, then do a good job governing."

No Faith In Capitalism

These are some of the events which took place as the nation celebrated its 186th birthday last week.

It so happened that one week earlier, Dr. Fred Schwartz, Australian head of the Anti-Communist Crusade, staged a gala rally in Madison Square Garden to alert New Yorkers to the manner in which the American people were failing to meet the challenge of Communism.

Simultaneously, such right-wingers as Rev. Billy James Hargis and Rev. Carl McIntyre harangued the American people over their extensive radio hookups, preaching the same line.

They give the impression that the United States is slipping, that Americans should look carefully at their neighbors for fear they are harboring Communists, and that the American political system will go under unless buoyed up by suspicion and hate. Just as ex-Foreign Minister Molotov doesn't have confidence in the Communist system without war, they don't seem to believe the capitalist system can survive without preventive war.

And just the opposite of Italy's Premier Fanfani who beat the Communists by raiding left-of-center political parties, and just the opposite of left-of-center Presidents of Venezuela and Costa Rica who are the toughest battlers against Castro's Communism, these right-wingers consider any professor, Secretary of State, or ex-President who is willing to talk to the other side a dangerous radical.

Obviously this is a profitable line, however, for Dr. Schwartz is ringing up more dollars for his crusade than in any other year — $1,373,492 collected in 1961 as against only $364,535 in 1960. This proves that if you shout loud enough and long enough an increasing number of people can be scared over the prospect of Communism even though the facts, as indicated by the events of last week, show that the tide is actually running against Communism.

No one knows where she came from. Or, for that matter, who she was. The farthest back anyone can remember, Bessie Cullen worked for Marty Knight on his farm in Piscataway Township. The farm set back off the road between a cool, heavy woods and a railroad crossing. There was an old fashioned main house with a big porch and a lot of gingerbread on the eaves, a summer kitchen, and down in the lowland, a red barn.

At night Bessie slept in the hot attic. There were no screens and she rubbed the dark skin of her bony hands and her forehead with citronella to keep the mosquitoes away. She retired at twilight and was up working at dawn. Bessie knew the lonely shriek of every freight train heading for Dunellen.

Nobody ever loved Bessie. No one pretended to love her. She was a working girl. Her hair was Indian black and she wore it in tight braids. The forehead was high and round and the eyes were black. The edge of the mouth was rimmed with two half-moon wrinkles. The hands had big blue veins.

Her life was simple. All she had to do was exactly as she was told. When the farm work was done, Bessie worked the hand pump in the kitchen and washed the dishes in cold well water. If the weather was hot, someone asked for iced tea and Bessie Cullen stopped her work, dried her hands on a blue apron, and made the tea. No one ever asked her if she wanted some.

She could weed; she could tie tomato vines high; she took care of beehives and apple trees and canned fruit and fed the hired hands in the summer house. She also fed Reilly and Leed, the big dogs chained — one behind the house, one down at the barn. Her body was perpetually skinny and flat chested and she wore the cast-off-dresses of children who lived better than she.

No one knew for sure whether she was 15 or 50. She never mentioned parents or relatives. If the Knights gave her any more than her room and food, and some second-hand shoes, no one ever saw it. If anyone wanted to converse with Bessie, she always sat properly, far forward on the chair, knees together, hands clasped on knees.

Her eyes were always expectant with laughter. Bessie was the greatest toy a child ever had. She told all the little girls that they were beautiful; she fixed their hair, told stories, giggled behind her hand, and took them on adventurous walks through the woods. Little boys were all bound to be great artists and great writers—she told them so.

She could look at a crayon sketch of a church steeple and see Rembrandt in it. When I was nine, she read a printed composition I had written, "Oh," she said with wonderment, "you are going to be a fine writer. You write such beautiful stories. (It was three paragraphs long.) You will be famous and I will be there when they give you prizes."

The Knights died off. The farm was sold. The barn was empty except for the old harness hanging on a peg and the smell of straw and manure. Nobody knew what to do with Bessie. Some relatives took her to the city. She worked for one. Then another. Then back again to the first.

Bessie was good cheap labor. She cost nothing, unless someone wanted to give her 50 cents now and then. She was a first class baby sitter; she scrubbed linoleum and waxed it by hand. She served the dinner and ate when everyone was finished. No man ever asked her out; no one ever looked at her a second time.

Wherever she worked, she tried doubly hard to please because, as she grew older, she became afraid that she was hardly worth the bed and the food. When she worked at our house, she helped me with my homework and she kept telling me to practice my writing. Whenever I wrote anything, she clapped her hands with glee and her eyes sparkled like chips of sunlight in dark pools.

Se left our house and went somewhere else. When she shook my hand, Bessie looked at me a long time. Finally I said: "So long" and pulled my hand away. I saw her rarely but, as I grew toward manhood, I remarked that she had never weighed more than 80 pounds, and now she appeared to be smaller, thinner.

One day I heard my mother and Aunt Etta say that Bessie Cullen had cancer. One of them said: "How old do you think poor Bessie is?" The other one said: "The Lord only knows." When Bessie became ill, the family for whom she worked had to let her go, so she was sent to a state hospital.

There, for many months, she suffered the stomach pains, the piercing cramps, in silence. When the bad ones came, she doubled over. In time, she died.

Aunt Etta buried her. I went to the wake and stood beside the casket studying the dark little face. I was a man now. "In a way," I said to her, "I think I loved you. Honest, Bessie." . . .

Report On New Gel To Aid Teething Infants

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A Louisiana physician reported recently on his experience with a new gel for easing teething distress. It was tried on 48 infants and the parents were asked to be the judge; 40 said there was marked relief within 2 minutes or less after its application.

Babies cut their first teeth at varying intervals and the majority end up with all 20 by the time they are 2 or 2½ years old. Tooth cutting seldom causes much discomfort. Some develop sore gums, become irritable, cry, chew, suck, bite, or eat less.

Many tots breeze through dentition without difficulty. Should fever develop, it usually is blamed on teething. But careful studies have shown that in many instances there is a real illness such as a cold or sore throat.

The study mentioned previously was conducted by Dr. Richard M. Dawes, who discussed the results in the Journal of the Louisiana State Medical Association. The gel contains a mild antiseptic and choline salicylate. The latter, in contrast to aspirin or other salicylate, does not irritate or corrode tooth enamel. It does relieve pain, however.

The parents were told to apply the material three to six times a day when the infants became irritable, cried, or had a rise in temperature. In addition, they were given a printed form on which they were asked to list the results. The majority of the parents were well pleased but whether this constitutes proof can be questioned.

Every other parent in the group should have received an inert gel to act as cont
it the salicylate in the gel that did the trick or was i the tender loving care that quited the tot in 2 minutes? After all, children respond to comforting and cuddling, and some find it soothing to have the gums massaged.

TOMORROW: Protect your vision.

PILL SHARING

E. C. writes: A close relative of ours is taking a tranquilizer prescribed by her doctor for heart trouble. My mother became nervous after the death of my father, a year ago, and this relative has been giving my mother some of her pills. I do not like it, but my mother won't listen to me and won't go to a physician. What can I do about this situation?

REPLY

Nothing. It is poor policy to take medicine prescribed for someone else. Perhaps your mother will have to learn the hard way.

SWEATING FEET

M. F. writes: My feet perspire excessively all year 'round —winter and summer. Could a lack of certain vitamins be responsible.

REPLY

No. Allergy to shoes or a ringworm infection are possibilities. Many people are bothered along this line for no apparent reason except that they are high strung or are endowed with overactive sweat glands.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A father wandered into the kitchen late one night and found a persistent and—in the father's eyes—utterly undesirable suitor of his daughter chewing on a succulent turkey leg. "Tell me," rasped the father, "what other kinds of work do you do besides cleaning out refrigerators?"

Mr. Thompson came home from the office one evening with a horrendous tale of the lunch he had eaten. "The restaurant looked inviting," he said, "so I tried it for a change. Sure enough, the soup, salad, and beef were delicious. But the pie was inedible and the coffee was slop. Do you know what I discovered? The place had changed hands right in the middle of my meal."

A young man who was making quite a name for himself in a Western TV series ruined everything by resorting to an analyst's couch. Now, reports Hank Grant, every time the sheriff asks him,

"Which way did the varmit go?" our hero bursts into tears and cries, "I'm not sure, I'm not sure."

One of old Deerfield's thriftiest citizens bore the quaint name of Consider Dickinson. Consider paid his serving maid the princely wage of one dollar a week. Then he found she was saving money on it. So he married her.

An Anniversary To Celebrate?

A hundred years ago President Lincoln signed the act establishing the first federal income tax (the top rate was five per cent) and the Internal Revenue Service thinks the anniversary merits recognition.

Why it thinks so is not altogether clear, for the income tax lasted only a few years after the Civil War. Revived in 1894, it was declared unconstitutional the next year. Not until 1913, when the 16th Amendment was adopted, did the income tax begin an uninterrupted existence. No one can deny that it has made up for all those lost years.

In what surely must be the year's understatement, IRS says it is "not likely to become the most popular of federal agencies." Nevertheless, it insists, it is one of the most essential and is "performing with noteworthy success" and effectiveness. More modestly, IRS attributes much of this success to the honesty and patriotism of American citizens and their more or less voluntary compliance.

Few seek to evade their taxes and the rich and powerful in the United States cannot ignore the tax laws, which is not, says IRS, the case in "many nations." Perhaps it was not quite tactful of IRS to bring this up, because among the nations that let the rich get away with it are some that are receiving, or hope to receive, substantial sums of American taxpayers' money.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Welfare State

George S. Montgomery, Jr., a man of broad economic knowledge, writes me:

"To challenge your thesis (that the people voted for the Welfare State) would, of course, require a volume in which the evidence pro and con would reach into factors involved in the respective elections. Against your thesis, I would point instances that Roosevelt, personally, advocated economy in government during his 1932 campaign. I recall vividly his proposal to slash 25% off a list of Federal expenditures.

Montgomery then gives as evidence "The Dunn Survey" which says:

"In contrast, while the number of beneficiaries of such Democratic policies increased by millions there was no increase in Democratic vote. The Democratic vote for President was as follows (in millions):

1936 — 27.5
1940 — 27.2
1944 — 25.6
1948 — 26.4
(incl. Truman, Thurmond, Wallace)
1952 — 27.3

"Thus, if Democratic policies gained the great labor, farm and welfare votes Republican leaders taught their followers to believe, Democrats necessarily lost one vote for every vote gained. In addition, a smaller and smaller proportion of the population of voting age voted Democratic."

The answer, of course, is that the Democrats managed to elect all their candidates for the Presidency from 1932 to 1960, except Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose program and conduct in office in no manner lessened the trend toward the Welfare State. Of the current Republican candidates for President, Richard Nixon, Nelson Rockefeller and Barry Goldwater, only Goldwater really opposes the Welfare State.

President Eisenhower was elected as a military hero. It is only since he has become an ex-President that he has assumed effective leadership. When he was President, he permitted his party to fall into the hands of opportunists who played for votes without principle.

When, however, former President Eisenhower speaks of the Party of Business he needs to define his terms. There are all sorts of businesses in this country:

1. There is the "overhead" business, namely, banks, insurance companies, lawyers, engineering firms, brokers, etc.

Although many of the individuals so engaged have considerable prestige, they are far removed from other and equally or more important branches of the business community. Often their interests are remotely related to the welfare of business and sometimes their earnings are greater when business is in trouble than in good times. Sometimes this group includes the "stuffed shirt" elements, those who fear to be dispossessed by the course of events.

2. There are those who operate the very large units of industry in which the ownership is so diffuse as to be separated altogether from management. These big industries are, in effect, managed by vast bureaucracies, very much like government bureaucracies. They engage in an enormous amount of paper work. Their management is often in the hands of salaried men who only own such equities as they obtain through stock options or deferred payments. Some of them invest their savings in the shares of their companies, but the amounts are small.

In the past, many such persons enjoyed large expense accounts which they spent and therefore kept money in circulation. Anyone who knows anything about business knows that it costs money to earn money. The rigidity of the Internal Revenue Service on the subject of expense accounts has undobutedly had an unfavorable effect on business and on the managerial element.

3. The entreprenur type of businessman is really all that is left in our mixed economy of the old-type capitalist who made this the largest productive area on Earth. He works with risk capital. He begs and borrows to organize new industries and to modernize old existing ones. He builds new plants and creates new enterprises. He is a constructive citizen.

He suffers today from the anti-risk attitude of the SEC, the New York Exchange, the banks and the law — all designed to keep our economy sure and static. Often, he finds it sensible to go abroad to borrow money in countries where risk is still recognized as a proper function of the capitalist system.

4. The small businessman represents the largest unit of production and distribution. He is being squeezed between the big businesses and the enormous and costly load of bookkeeping that the government places upon him.

Which of these categories of businessmen does the government consult? It is usually the first category — the very pleasant and sociable stuffed shirts who in the business world are recognized as such.

'United States Of Europe' Idea is Confusing

By David Lawrence

GENEVA—President Kennedy's address at Independence Hall on July 4 was a bit confusing to Europeans. They couldn't tell whether he was forecasting a United States of Europe along the lines of his own country or whether, despite a loose use of words, he was trying to indicate that Europe might well have a federation or alliance as each country retained its sovereignty.

Mr. Kennedy was on firm ground as he extolled the idea of independence and as he rejoiced in the recently intensified movement away from colonialism throughout the world. He was logical, too, when he spoke of a declaration of "interdependence," for this concept means a "partnership" or strengthened alliance as between Europe and America.

The puzzlement developed, however, when Mr. Kennedy carried his analogy further, as he said:

"As apt and applicable as the Declaration of Independence is today, we would do well to honor the other historic document drafted in this hall, the Constitution of the United States.

"For it stressed not independence, but interdependence; not the individual liberty of one, but the indivisible liberty of all."

But has the Constitution—as interpreted by the Supreme Court of the United States in recent years—stressed the "interdependence" of the several states of the Union, or has it emphasized the dominance of and control of the states by the national government?

Among Europeans, moreover, this will be interpreted as a forecast by Mr. Kennedy that the "Common Market" organization is the beginning of something patterned after the American Union. For later on in the same speech, the President said:

"It would be premature at this time to do more than indicate the high regard with which we view the formation of this partnership. The first order of business is for our European friends to go forward in forming the more perfect union which will someday make this partnership possible. A great new edifice is not built overnight. It was eleven years from the Declaration of Independence to the writing of the Constitution. The construction of workable federal institutions required still another generation."

Is the President really predicting a United States of Europe with a Constitution like that in America? Do the peoples of Europe today have any such idea in mind as they applaud, for economic purposes, the building of the "Common Market?" Do the people of France or Britain, for example, intend respectively to give up their independence and sovereignty as the various states of the American Union have been forced to give these up through decisions of the country's highest court? Or is it contemplated that each member country will continue to run its domestic affairs and will simply give up something of its sovereignty insofar as military and foreign policies are concerned?

Plainly, the emphasis in Europe today is on the financial and commercial advantages of a trade union which can deal singly with the United States and other countries on tariffs. But certain countries like Sweden and Switzerland are making it plain that they do not mean to go in for any "political association." The idea of a United States of Europe has its champions in all parts of Europe, but the proposal could hardly win a majority vote in any country at this time. In fact, reiteration of prophesies that the "Common Market" is merely the forerunner of another internal union like that of America means in many quarters the putting up of roadblocks to an endorsement of the "Common Market" organization in various countries, including Great Britain.

Obviously it is better for America to deal with a single entity in trade matters than with diverse governments. That is why perhaps Mr. Kennedy is boosting unity in all its aspects. He said in his Fourth of July speech:

"We will be prepared to discuss with a united Europe the ways and means of forming a concrete Atlantic partnership, a Mutually beneficial partnership between the new union now emerging in Europe and the old American Union founded here 175 years ago."

Realistically, however, General de Gaulle, for instance, hasn't any notion whatsoever of transferring the sovereignty of France to a political union like that which prevails in America. Nor would any French President or Premier dare to advocate such a course.

External confederation is all that the majority of Europeans have in mind today. Thus, the London "Times," in commenting on the Kennedy speech, emphasized the idea of an "alliance" and said that the President is seeking "a genuine partnership based on growing equality and shared responsibility." The editorial expressed gratitude that the United States isn't trying in any way "to grab the scheme" of a "Common Market."

For, in truth, the United States doesn't regard the "Common Market" as a rival and wants it to succeed because it can become the basis for a better trade relationship and perhaps even for a stronger military alliance that would relieve America of some of its financial burdens of defense and, especially the balance-of-payments deficit.

But American policymakers and Presidential speechwriters would do better not to place these objectives in jeopardy by painting for Europe the picture of another United States where a written Constitution has gradually been superseded by periodic decisions of the Supreme Court. For once upon a time the Tenth Amendment pledged that all rights not specifically delegated to the national government would be "reserved to the states respectively, or to the people." That pledge, however, has been brushed aside by decisions of the court as not in the "public interest." The states are no longer "interdependent." They are dependent colonies of the federal government.

REPUBLICAN THUNDER — Who ever heard of a Democrat delivering a "Lincoln Day" speech? For many years now, Republican politicians have used the occasion of Abraham Lincoln's birthday to raise funds for their party at political rallies across the country.

It came as a shock and surprise, therefore, for GOP members of the Senate and House to learn that the Democratic Party is trying to "kidnap" their greatest political hero.

There was an old fashioned main house with a big porch and a lot of gingerbread on the eaves, a summer kitchen, and down in the lowland, a red barn.

At night Bessie slept in the hot attic. There were no screens and she rubbed the dark skin of her bony hands and her forehead with citronella to keep the mosquitoes away. She retired at twilight and was up working at dawn. Bessie knew the lonely shriek of every freight train heading for Dunellen.

Nobody ever loved Bessie. No one pretended to love her. She was a working girl. Her hair was Indian black and she wore it in tight braids. The forehead was high and round and the eyes were black. The edge of the mouth was rimmed with two half-moon wrinkles. The hands had big blue veins.

Her life was simple. All she had to do was exactly as she was told. When the farm work was done, Bessie worked the hand pump in the kitchen and washed the dishes in cold well water. If the weather was hot, someone asked for iced tea and Bessie Cullen stopped her work, dried her hands on a blue apron, and made the tea. No one ever asked her if she wanted some.

She could weed; she could tie tomato vines high; she took care of beehives and apple trees and canned fruit and fed the hired hands in the summer house. She also fed Reilly and Leed, the big dogs chained — one behind the house, one down at the barn. Her body was perpetually skinny and flat chested and she wore the cast-off-dresses of children who lived better than she.

No one knew for sure whether she was 15 or 50. She never mentioned parents or relatives. If the Knights gave her any more than her room and food, and some second-hand shoes, no one ever saw it. If anyone wanted to converse with Bessie, she always sat properly, far forward on the chair, knees together, hands clasped on knees.

Her eyes were always expectant with laughter. Bessie was the greatest toy a child ever had. She told all the little girls that they were beautiful; she fixed their hair, told stories, giggled behind her hand, and took them on adventurous walks through the woods. Little boys were all bound to be great artists and great writers—she told them so.

She could look at a crayon sketch of a church steeple and see Rembrandt in it. When I was nine, she read a printed composition I had written, "Oh," she said with wonderment, "you are going to be a fine writer. You write such beautiful stories. (It was three paragraphs long.) You will be famous and I will be there when they give you prizes."

The Knights died off. The farm was sold. The barn was empty except for the old harness hanging on a peg and the smell of straw and manure. Nobody knew what to do with Bessie. Some relatives took her to the city. She worked for one. Then another. Then back again to the first.

Bessie was good cheap labor. She cost nothing, unless someone wanted to give her 50 cents now and then. She was a first class baby sitter; she scrubbed linoleum and waxed it by hand. She served the dinner and ate when everyone was finished. No man ever asked her out; no one ever looked at her a second time.

Wherever she worked, she tried doubly hard to please because, as she grew older, she became afraid that she was hardly worth the bed and the food. When she worked at our house, she helped me with my homework and she kept telling me to practice my writing. Whenever I wrote anything, she clapped her hands with glee and her eyes sparkled like chips of sunlight in dark pools.

Se left our house and went somewhere else. When she shook my hand, Bessie looked at me a long time. Finally I said: "So long" and pulled my hand away. I saw her rarely but, as I grew toward manhood, I remarked that she had never weighed more than 80 pounds, and now she appeared to be smaller, thinner.

One day I heard my mother and Aunt Etta say that Bessie Cullen had cancer. One of them said: "How old do you think poor Bessie is?" The other one said: "The Lord only knows." When Bessie became ill, the family for whom she worked had to let her go, so she was sent to a state hospital.

There, for many months, she suffered the stomach pains, the piercing cramps, in silence. When the bad ones came, she doubled over. In time, she died.

Aunt Etta buried her. I went to the wake and stood beside the casket studying the dark little face. I was a man now. "In a way," I said to her, "I think I loved you. Honest, Bessie." . . .

Report On New Gel To Aid Teething Infants

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A Louisiana physician reported recently on his experience with a new gel for easing teething distress. It was tried on 48 infants and the parents were asked to be the judge; 40 said there was marked relief within 2 minutes or less after its application.

Babies cut their first teeth at varying intervals and the majority end up with all 20 by the time they are 2 or 2½ years old. Tooth cutting seldom causes much discomfort. Some develop sore gums, become irritable, cry, chew, suck, bite, or eat less.

Many tots breeze through dentition without difficulty. Should fever develop, it usually is blamed on teething. But careful studies have shown that in many instances there is a real illness such as a cold or sore throat.

The study mentioned previously was conducted by Dr. Richard M. Dawes, who discussed the results in the Journal of the Louisiana State Medical Association. The gel contains a mild antiseptic and choline salicylate. The latter, in contrast to aspirin or other salicylate, does not irritate or corrode tooth enamel. It does relieve pain, however.

The parents were told to apply the material three to six times a day when the infants became irritable, cried, or had a rise in temperature. In addition, they were given a printed form on which they were asked to list the results. The majority of the parents were well pleased but whether this constitutes proof can be questioned.

Every other parent in the group should have received an inert gel to act as cont
it the salicylate in the gel that did the trick or was i the tender loving care that quited the tot in 2 minutes? After all, children respond to comforting and cuddling, and some find it soothing to have the gums massaged.

TOMORROW: Protect your vision.

PILL SHARING

E. C. writes: A close relative of ours is taking a tranquilizer prescribed by her doctor for heart trouble. My mother became nervous after the death of my father, a year ago, and this relative has been giving my mother some of her pills. I do not like it, but my mother won't listen to me and won't go to a physician. What can I do about this situation?

REPLY

Nothing. It is poor policy to take medicine prescribed for someone else. Perhaps your mother will have to learn the hard way.

SWEATING FEET

M. F. writes: My feet perspire excessively all year 'round —winter and summer. Could a lack of certain vitamins be responsible.

REPLY

No. Allergy to shoes or a ringworm infection are possibilities. Many people are bothered along this line for no apparent reason except that they are high strung or are endowed with overactive sweat glands.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A father wandered into the kitchen late one night and found a persistent and—in the father's eyes—utterly undesirable suitor of his daughter chewing on a succulent turkey leg. "Tell me," rasped the father, "what other kinds of work do you do besides cleaning out refrigerators?"

Mr. Thompson came home from the office one evening with a horrendous tale of the lunch he had eaten. "The restaurant looked inviting," he said, "so I tried it for a change. Sure enough, the soup, salad, and beef were delicious. But the pie was inedible and the coffee was slop. Do you know what I discovered? The place had changed hands right in the middle of my meal."

A young man who was making quite a name for himself in a Western TV series ruined everything by resorting to an analyst's couch. Now, reports Hank Grant, every time the sheriff asks him,

"Which way did the varmit go?" our hero bursts into tears and cries, "I'm not sure, I'm not sure."

One of old Deerfield's thriftiest citizens bore the quaint name of Consider Dickinson. Consider paid his serving maid the princely wage of one dollar a week. Then he found she was saving money on it. So he married her.

Chisox Knock Tribe Out Of First Place; Dodgers Regain NL Lead

Chicago Hands Indians Double Loss, 6-3, 8-4

Pizarro, Herbert Victors; Yankees Take Over Lead

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox walloped Cleveland, 8-4, in the nightcap Sunday after winning the first game, 6-3, on home runs by Charley Maxwell and Luis Aparicio.

The double loss dropped the Indians into second place, a full game behind the New York Yanks.

Chicago, leading 4-2, broke the second game wide open with four more runs in the sixth. The Sox scored on two walks, four singles and Don Dillard's two-base error.

Chicago had taken a 4-0 lead in the first inning on Maxwell's triple, doubles by Nellie Fox and Joe Cunningham and Aparicio's single. The runs were all unearned because of an error by Bubba Phillips with two out.

Ray Herbert pitched all the way and recorded his eighth victory against five losses. Pedro Ramos, who was knocked out of the box in the sixth, suffered his sixth his loss against four victories.

In the first game, Maxwell and Aparicio homered in the sixth inning as Chicago rallied from a 3-2 deficit. Maxwell tagged Cleveland's starter, Jim Perry. Al Smith then singled, knocking out Perry, and Aparicio greeted Frank Funk with a drive over the left field fence.

The White Sox added another run in the ninth against Bill Dailey. Juan Pizarro, who evened his record at 7-7, gave up only seven hits including a two-run homer by Woody Held.

Spahn Cops 317th As Braves Divide

CHICAGO (UPI) — Warren Spahn hurled himself into 10th place among all-time major league winners and celebrated his 14th choice to the National League All-Star squad Sunday by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 5-3, in the nightcap of a doubleheader.

Bob Buhl bested his former mates in the opener for the third time this season as the Cubs snapped Lew Burdette's seven-game win streak, 7-5.

Spahn tied the second game in the sixth inning with a two-out, two-run single and Mack Jones homered in the eighth to give the 41-year-old lefthander his 317th major league win. The victory snapped a nine-game losing steak for Spahn on the road this season and tied him with Mike Welch in 10th place on the all-time win list. Spahn now is 8-10 for the season.

Hector Lopez's Homer In Ninth Wins For Yanks

New York Sweeps Twins Series, 9-8

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) —New York got home runs from three of its least likely sluggers Sunday and edged the Minnesota Twins 9-8 and sweep a three-game series.

The payoff whack for the Yankees was a two-run home run into the left field bleachers in the top of the ninth by Hector Lopez with Roger Maris, who had reached base on an error, aboard.

The blow staked New York to a 9-5 lead, but the Twins still weren't finished.

Whitey Ford walked the first two men he faced in the last of the ninth. Then pinch hitter Don Mincher walloped a three-run homer into the bull pen in right center off reliever Luis Arroyo, pulling Minnesota within a run with none out.

However, Arroyo regained control and got out of it without further damage although he walked two more before retiring the side by striking out Harmon Killebrew, who earlier had hit his 18th homer.

Ford, now 7-4, got the win.

Buskey Heads Four CCC Golfers Today In Maryland Open

Richard Buskey, assistant pro, and Joseph Gratton, Orville W. Jackson and Morton Peskin Jr., of the Cumberland Country Club will compete in the qualifying round of the Maryland Open Golf Tournament today at the Woodmont Country Club at Rockville.

This is the first time in the tournament's 42-year history that a qualifying round will be held.

The 60 low scorers out of 124 hopefuls will go into the 36-hole showdown Tuesday.

The extra 18-holes will be worth it to the winner. The first prize of $500 out of a total of $2,000 will be the most ever for the Maryland champion.

Mel Rowe, of Court House, Va., is the defending champion. He is one of six former winners in the field. Charlie Bassler, of Indian Spring, is a six-time champion. Bobby Brownell of Chevy Chase is the only amateur seeking a repeat title.

"Boog" To Wed

During the All-Star break, "Boog" Powell of the Orioles will wed Janet Swinton, Kent State University co-ed, whom he met last summer when he played at Rochester, his fiance's home town. This will reduce the club to one bachelor, Chuck Estrada.

Enters International

LAUREL, Md. — Arctic Storm, a three-year-old Irish-bred and owned colt which won and finished second in track record performances in his last two starts, is the first official entry and Ireland's representative in the eleventh running of the $125,000 Washington D. Pittsburgh Loses, 8-4, Then Beats Phils, 6-5

Clemente's Hitting Features Nightcap; Law Drops Opener

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates broke a home doubleheader jinx Sunday by downing the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-5, in the second game after losing the opener, 8-4.

The Pirates had played four Twin bills at Forbes Field this season and lost them all.

Sunday's split was the first of the year for the Bucs, who have won three doubleheaders and lost five.

Roberto Clemente continued his batting rampage with a home run and double in the nightcap, driving in three runs. His homer in the seventh inning gave the Pirates a 6-4 lead and proved the margin of victory.

Roy Face, who made his 18th save of the season, yielded a run in the eighth to the Phils but got out of a jam in the ninth when pinch-hitter Tony Taylor lined into a double play.

The winner was Tom Sturdivant second of four Pirate pitchers. Starter Billy Smith was the loser for the Phils.

In the opener, Clay Dalrymple had three hits and drove in three runs to pace the Phillies. Jack Baldschun hurled six scoreless innings in relief of Dennis Bennett for the victory.

The Phillies kayoed loser Vern Law with three runs in the fifth inning to overcome a 4-3 Pirate lead. Johnny Callison led off with his ninth home run, and after Tony Gonzalez and Roy Sievers singled, Dalrymple socked a two-run double.

Boston Sweeps Angels Series

Coast Team Drops Third Straight, 5-4

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Clutch singles by Russ Nixon and Carl Yastrzemski in the seventh inning brought the Boston Red Sox from behind Sunday and sent them on a 5-4 victory, their third straight over the falling Los Angeles Angels.

The Angels closed the gap to one run in the ninth inning when after two men were out and two on base, Steve Bilko hit a pinch double. Gene Conley then came in to retire the final batter with the tying run on second.

With the Red Sox trailing, 1-2 in the seventh, Nixon hit a pinch single with two men on base to score the tying run off loser Eli Grba. Reliefer Dean Chance then loaded the bases with a walk and Yastrzemski singled in a pair of runs.

Boston infielder Pete Runnels increased the lead with a solo homer in the eight off Tom Morgan, his second four-bagger of the series.

Bill Monbouquette held the Angels in check until the ninth when he weakened slightly but thanks to Conley's relief he retrained his eighth win.

Musial Clouts Three Homers, Equals Record

Mets Clobbered By Cards, 15-1

NEW YORK (AP)—Stan Musial matched another major league record with three home runs and Bob Gibson pitched a neat three-hitter as the St. Louis Cardinals crushed New York's error-prone Mets Sunday 15-1.

Musial's homers gave him four in consecutive official at bats, counting the one he hit in the second game of Saturday's doubleheader. That tied a big league mark shared by 12 other players.

The Cardinals' great 41-year-old batting star connected Sunday in the first, fourth and seventh innings and walked in the third. His try for a fifth straight homer failed when he struck out in the eighth.

Musial's slugging paced St. Louis' 16-hit barrage that also included homers by Bill White, Fred Whitfield and Gibson.

Koufax Beats Giants, 2-0, For 13th Win

Don Drysdale Stops San Francisco Rally In Ninth Inning

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Don Drysdale came to the aid of Sandy Koufax in the ninth inning Sunday and quenched a rally to assure Los Angeles a 2-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants and restore the Dodgers to first place in the National League.

Koufax, who struck out nine to run his season total to 202, went into the ninth inning with a two-hitter, then wobbled after pinch-hitter Bob Neiman led off with a clean single. After Harvey Kuenn struck out, Koufax walked Jim Davenport, then was taken out when he ran the count to 2-0 on Willie Mays.

Drysdale came in at that point and walked Mays on two more pitches. But with the bases loaded, the fireballing righthander retired Orlando Cepeda on a foul to catcher John Roseboro, then made Felipe Alou hit a sharp grounder to shortstop Maury Wills for a force out that ended the game.

Koufax, who pitched hitless ball until the seventh inning, lifted his season mark to 13-4. The loss went to Billy O'Dell (10-7), who gave up 12 hits but held the Dodgers scoreless until the eighth.

Chicago Hands Indians Double Loss, 6-3, 8-4

Pizarro, Herbert Victors; Yankees Take Over Lead

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox walloped Cleveland, 8-4, in the nightcap Sunday after winning the first game, 6-3, on home runs by Charley Maxwell and Luis Aparicio.

The double loss dropped the Indians into second place, a full game behind the New York Yanks.

Chicago, leading 4-2, broke the second game wide open with four more runs in the sixth. The Sox scored on two walks, four singles and Don Dillard's two-base error.

Chicago had taken a 4-0 lead in the first inning on Maxwell's triple, doubles by Nellie Fox and Joe Cunningham and Aparicio's single. The runs were all unearned because of an error by Bubba Phillips with two out.

Ray Herbert pitched all the way and recorded his eighth victory against five losses. Pedro Ramos, who was knocked out of the box in the sixth, suffered his sixth his loss against four victories.

In the first game, Maxwell and Aparicio homered in the sixth inning as Chicago rallied from a 3-2 deficit. Maxwell tagged Cleveland's starter, Jim Perry. Al Smith then singled, knocking out Perry, and Aparicio greeted Frank Funk with a drive over the left field fence.

The White Sox added another run in the ninth against Bill Dailey. Juan Pizarro, who evened his record at 7-7, gave up only seven hits including a two-run homer by Woody Held.

Spahn Cops 317th As Braves Divide

CHICAGO (UPI) — Warren Spahn hurled himself into 10th place among all-time major league winners and celebrated his 14th choice to the National League All-Star squad Sunday by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 5-3, in the nightcap of a doubleheader.

Bob Buhl bested his former mates in the opener for the third time this season as the Cubs snapped Lew Burdette's seven-game win streak, 7-5.

Spahn tied the second game in the sixth inning with a two-out, two-run single and Mack Jones homered in the eighth to give the 41-year-old lefthander his 317th major league win. The victory snapped a nine-game losing steak for Spahn on the road this season and tied him with Mike Welch in 10th place on the all-time win list. Spahn now is 8-10 for the season.

Hector Lopez's Homer In Ninth Wins For Yanks

New York Sweeps Twins Series, 9-8

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) —New York got home runs from three of its least likely sluggers Sunday and edged the Minnesota Twins 9-8 and sweep a three-game series.

The payoff whack for the Yankees was a two-run home run into the left field bleachers in the top of the ninth by Hector Lopez with Roger Maris, who had reached base on an error, aboard.

The blow staked New York to a 9-5 lead, but the Twins still weren't finished.

Whitey Ford walked the first two men he faced in the last of the ninth. Then pinch hitter Don Mincher walloped a three-run homer into the bull pen in right center off reliever Luis Arroyo, pulling Minnesota within a run with none out.

However, Arroyo regained control and got out of it without further damage although he walked two more before retiring the side by striking out Harmon Killebrew, who earlier had hit his 18th homer.

Ford, now 7-4, got the win.

Richard Buskey, assistant pro, and Joseph Gratton, Orville W. Jackson and Morton Peskin Jr., of the Cumberland Country Club will compete in the qualifying round of the Maryland Open Golf Tournament today at the Woodmont Country Club at Rockville.

The extra 18-holes will be worth it to the winner. The first prize of $500 out of a total of $2,000 will be the most ever for the Maryland champion.

Mel Rowe, of Court House, Va., is the defending champion. He is one of six former winners in the field. Charlie Bassler, of Indian Spring, is a six-time champion. Bobby Brownell of Chevy Chase is the only amateur seeking a repeat title.

"Boog" To Wed

During the All-Star break, "Boog" Powell of the Orioles will wed Janet Swinton, Kent State University co-ed, whom he met last summer when he played at Rochester, his fiance's home town. This will reduce the club to one bachelor, Chuck Estrada.

Pittsburgh Loses, 8-4, Then Beats Phils, 6-5

Clemente's Hitting Features Nightcap; Law Drops Opener

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates broke a home doubleheader jinx Sunday by downing the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-5, in the second game after losing the opener, 8-4.

The Pirates had played four Twin bills at Forbes Field this season and lost them all.

Sunday's split was the first of the year for the Bucs, who have won three doubleheaders and lost five.

Roberto Clemente continued his batting rampage with a home run and double in the nightcap, driving in three runs. His homer in the seventh inning gave the Pirates a 6-4 lead and proved the margin of victory.

Roy Face, who made his 18th save of the season, yielded a run in the eighth to the Phils but got out of a jam in the ninth when pinch-hitter Tony Taylor lined into a double play.

The winner was Tom Sturdivant second of four Pirate pitchers. Starter Billy Smith was the loser for the Phils.

In the opener, Clay Dalrymple had three hits and drove in three runs to pace the Phillies. Jack Baldschun hurled six scoreless innings in relief of Dennis Bennett for the victory.

The Phillies kayoed loser Vern Law with three runs in the fifth inning to overcome a 4-3 Pirate lead. Johnny Callison led off with his ninth home run, and after Tony Gonzalez and Roy Sievers singled, Dalrymple socked a two-run double.

Boston Sweeps Angels Series

Coast Team Drops Third Straight, 5-4

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Clutch singles by Russ Nixon and Carl Yastrzemski in the seventh inning brought the Boston Red Sox from behind Sunday and sent them on a 5-4 victory, their third straight over the falling Los Angeles Angels.

The Angels closed the gap to one run in the ninth inning when after two men were out and two on base, Steve Bilko hit a pinch double. Gene Conley then came in to retire the final batter with the tying run on second.

With the Red Sox trailing, 1-2 in the seventh, Nixon hit a pinch single with two men on base to score the tying run off loser Eli Grba. Reliefer Dean Chance then loaded the bases with a walk and Yastrzemski singled in a pair of runs.

Boston infielder Pete Runnels increased the lead with a solo homer in the eight off Tom Morgan, his second four-bagger of the series.

Bill Monbouquette held the Angels in check until the ninth when he weakened slightly but thanks to Conley's relief he retrained his eighth win.

Musial Clouts Three Homers, Equals Record

Mets Clobbered By Cards, 15-1

NEW YORK (AP)—Stan Musial matched another major league record with three home runs and Bob Gibson pitched a neat three-hitter as the St. Louis Cardinals crushed New York's error-prone Mets Sunday 15-1.

Musial's homers gave him four in consecutive official at bats, counting the one he hit in the second game of Saturday's doubleheader. That tied a big league mark shared by 12 other players.

The Cardinals' great 41-year-old batting star connected Sunday in the first, fourth and seventh innings and walked in the third. His try for a fifth straight homer failed when he struck out in the eighth.

Musial's slugging paced St. Louis' 16-hit barrage that also included homers by Bill White, Fred Whitfield and Gibson.

Koufax Beats Giants, 2-0, For 13th Win

Don Drysdale Stops San Francisco Rally In Ninth Inning

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Don Drysdale came to the aid of Sandy Koufax in the ninth inning Sunday and quenched a rally to assure Los Angeles a 2-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants and restore the Dodgers to first place in the National League.

Koufax, who struck out nine to run his season total to 202, went into the ninth inning with a two-hitter, then wobbled after pinch-hitter Bob Neiman led off with a clean single. After Harvey Kuenn struck out, Koufax walked Jim Davenport, then was taken out when he ran the count to 2-0 on Willie Mays.

Drysdale came in at that point and walked Mays on two more pitches. But with the bases loaded, the fireballing righthander retired Orlando Cepeda on a foul to catcher John Roseboro, then made Felipe Alou hit a sharp grounder to shortstop Maury Wills for a force out that ended the game.

Koufax, who pitched hitless ball until the seventh inning, lifted his season mark to 13-4. The loss went to Billy O'Dell (10-7), who gave up 12 hits but held the Dodgers scoreless until the eighth.

Robert Keister gained the nod over Dave Wilson in a southpaw pitching duel yesterday at Frostburg to give the Grantsville Sluggers a 5-2 decision over the Pen-Mar Baseball League leaders.

The win gave the Garrett countians a 2-1 edge in the series and reduced Frostburg's lead to 1½ games. It was Keister's second straight win over the Merchants and the victory gave the Grantsville portsider a 6-2 record for the campaign.

Trailing 2-1, Grantsville won the game with a three-run explosion in the 7th and added another tally in the ninth.

Wilson Loses First

The loss was the first in three decisions for Dave Wilson, former Potomac State hurler who was 3-0 for West Virginia University this year.

Ronnie Broadwater belted a homer, Clyde Broadwater banged a double and single and Junie Perry larruped a tripie and single to pace the Grantsville hitters. Jim Chidester collected three singles, Gary Keedy garnered a double and single and Fred Schindler also smacked a two-bagger and single for the losers.

Manager William "Bee" Scarpelli was pressed into service in right field when Frostburg became short of outfielders. The absence of Pitko, Shaw and Zumpano, all outfielders, left five left-handed hitters in the lineup against southpaw pitching. Chidester, Schindler and Scarpelli were the outfielders who saw service.

Barrelville's Old Exports remained two games off the pace by registering their 10th win in 16 starts at the expense of the Flintstone Farmers, 11-4.

Bobby Raines Wins 7th

Bobby Raines pitched until the fifth and notched his third straight win over the Farmers this season. The win gave him an overall mark of 7-1. Bobby struck out seven. His brother, Donnie, finished on the rubber for Manager "Buck" Fiorita's team.

Wellington Donahue made his debut on the rubber, lasted until the third, and was tagged with the loss.

Joe Glass and Donnie Raines collected a double and single each while Sterne blasted a triple for Barrelville which racked up 13 hits. Richard Peck had a double and single, Ed Puffenberger a triple and Donahue a two-bagger.

Aaron Will Miss All-Star Contest; Spahn Is Selected

CHICAGO (UPI) — Outfielder Hank Aaron was scratched from the National League All-Star lineup with a bad ankle Sunday, moments before he stepped to the plate and whacked a three-run, pinch-hit homer in the 7-5 Milwaukee loss to Chicago.

National League President Warren Giles said Aaron would not play in the All-Star contest at Washington Tuesday. He will be replaced on the roster by veteran lefthander Warren Spahn.

Spahn, sporting a 7-10 mound record entering the second game of Sunday's doubleheader, has an earned run average this year of 3.21. It will mark the 14th time Spahn has been named to the All-Star team.

The Nittany Lions open their season Sept. 22 here against Navy.

Bill Collins Wins Buick Open Title

Noses Out Ragan For $9,000 Prize

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI)—Bill Collins of Miami, Fla., scored an even-par 34-38—72 Sunday and a 4-under-par 284 total which won him the $9,000 top money in the Buick Open golf championship.

Collins bogeyed the last hole but still had enough of a lead to preserve a one-shot triumph over Dave Ragan after his fellow Floridian, playing with him, birdied the final hole to finish second with a 285 total.

The six-foot, four-inch ex-Marine more than doubled his earnings for the year — previously having only won $8,345 on the tour this season—after being tied for the lead with two others as they started the final round at Warwick Hills Golf Club. And he was favored by Lady Luck because he escaped being out in a violent thunderstorm which delayed play for an hour and in which lightning killed a spectator.

Billy Casper, the rotund Californian who appeared to have a great chance when he was four-under-par after 12 holes, finished with a two-under-par 70 which tied him for third place with Doug Sanders. Sanders shot a 72.

Joe Campbell, the blonde belter from Indiana, closed with a 73 and a 287 which gave him fifth place.

Kansas City Wins In 15th Frame, 6-5

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A misfired squeeze attempt was converted into the winning run as the Kansas City Athletics won a 6-5 victory over the Washington Senators in 15 innings Sunday.

With the bases loaded and one out in the bottom of the 15th, Ed Charles was at bat and the A's attempted to squeeze home Jerry Lumpe from third. Charles missed the ball and Lumpe was caught in a rundown. Washington catcher Ken Retzer threw the ball to shortstop Ed Brinkman and Lumpe was safe when the ball got away.

Lumpe then raced home to score on the error.

John Wyatt got the win, the eighth straight triumph for Kansas City over the Senators. Wyatt pitched five hitless innings of relief in chalking up his fifth win of the year. Tom Cheney was charged with the loss.

Aaron Will Miss All-Star Contest; Spahn Is Selected

CHICAGO (UPI) — Outfielder Hank Aaron was scratched from the National League All-Star lineup with a bad ankle Sunday, moments before he stepped to the plate and whacked a three-run, pinch-hit homer in the 7-5 Milwaukee loss to Chicago.

National League President Warren Giles said Aaron would not play in the All-Star contest at Washington Tuesday. He will be replaced on the roster by veteran lefthander Warren Spahn.

Spahn, sporting a 7-10 mound record entering the second game of Sunday's doubleheader, has an earned run average this year of 3.21. It will mark the 14th time Spahn has been named to the All-Star team.

Gurney Wins French Race

California Driver Grand Prix Victor

ROUEN, France (UPI) — Dan Gurney of Riverside, Calif., won his first major road race Sunday when he steered his German Porsche to victory in the French automobile club's grand prix with an average speed of 98.70 miles per hour.

The 31-year-old Gurney, who first rode the European tracks in 1958, covered the 54-lap circuit in two hours, 7 minutes and 35.5 seconds.

Tony Maggs of South Africa finished second in a Cooper and Ritchie Ginther of Granada Hill, Calif., was third in a BRM.

Gurney was overjoyed at the victory that counts toward the world driving championship. He now has nine points and runs fourth to Britain's Graham Hill's 16 points in the standings.

Penn State To Play Two New Opponents

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Two new opponents and the three major service academies are listed on Penn State's 1962 football schedule announced Sunday.

The new foes are the Air Force and Rice. Other opponents include old rival Pitt, Syracuse, Holy Cross, Maryland, California, Army Navy and West Virginia University.

The Nittany Lions open their season Sept. 22 here against Navy.

Bill Collins Wins Buick Open Title

Noses Out Ragan For $9,000 Prize

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI)—Bill Collins of Miami, Fla., scored an even-par 34-38—72 Sunday and a 4-under-par 284 total which won him the $9,000 top money in the Buick Open golf championship.

Collins bogeyed the last hole but still had enough of a lead to preserve a one-shot triumph over Dave Ragan after his fellow Floridian, playing with him, birdied the final hole to finish second with a 285 total.

The six-foot, four-inch ex-Marine more than doubled his earnings for the year — previously having only won $8,345 on the tour this season—after being tied for the lead with two others as they started the final round at Warwick Hills Golf Club. And he was favored by Lady Luck because he escaped being out in a violent thunderstorm which delayed play for an hour and in which lightning killed a spectator.

Billy Casper, the rotund Californian who appeared to have a great chance when he was four-under-par after 12 holes, finished with a two-under-par 70 which tied him for third place with Doug Sanders. Sanders shot a 72.

Joe Campbell, the blonde belter from Indiana, closed with a 73 and a 287 which gave him fifth place.

Jack Underwood Makes 67th Ace In 42 Years At CCC

Jack Underwood, engineering manager for Celanese Fibers Company, shot the 67th hole-in-one in the 42-year history of the Cumberland Country Club on Saturday.

While playing in a foursome with John Baggett, Jack Stan and Bob Stover, Underwood made his ace on the 147-yard No. 10 with an eight iron.

Underwood has been playing golf for 20 years and this was his first hole-in-one.

Three aces have been posted over the CCC course this year. George Garlitz made his on No. 1 April 18 and Ronnie Slough connected on No. 18 June 17.

Seven holes-in-one were recorded last year at the Christie Road course.

Dr. Jack Arch Wins Even Hole Tourney

Dr. Jack Arch paced a field of 21 players in the even hole tournament staged over the weekend by the Men's Golf Association at the Cumberland Country Club by carding a net 40-10-30.

Players with flags on par three holes were:

No. 6—Dr. Arch. No. 10 — Jack Underwood. No. 12 — Clifton Van Roby. No. 15 — Bob Robinette. No. 18 — Max Bastain.

In a 7th flight match in the spring handicap tournament, Dr. James P. Hallinan defeated Gene Turano, 6 and 4.

Cathy Whitworth Cops Tournament

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP)—Cathy Whitworth, sweet-swinging 22-year-old from Jal, N. M., came from two strokes off the pace Sunday and won the Turf Valley Invitational Golf Tournament with a 54 hole score of 215—5 over par for the 6,300-yard par 35-35—70 course.

Miss Whitworth beat out Sandra Haynie of Fort Worth, Texas, by one shot when Mickey Wright, the 36-hole leader from Dallas, Texas, slipped to a final round 73 and fell to third place at 217. Miss Haynie shot 216 with an even par 70 round today.

Going for her fourth tournament triumph of the season, Miss Wright lost her chance on the greens. She three putted four holes and turned in a 37-36—73.

Kansas City Wins In 15th Frame, 6-5

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A misfired squeeze attempt was converted into the winning run as the Kansas City Athletics won a 6-5 victory over the Washington Senators in 15 innings Sunday.

With the bases loaded and one out in the bottom of the 15th, Ed Charles was at bat and the A's attempted to squeeze home Jerry Lumpe from third. Charles missed the ball and Lumpe was caught in a rundown. Washington catcher Ken Retzer threw the ball to shortstop Ed Brinkman and Lumpe was safe when the ball got away.

Lumpe then raced home to score on the error.

John Wyatt got the win, the eighth straight triumph for Kansas City over the Senators. Wyatt pitched five hitless innings of relief in chalking up his fifth win of the year. Tom Cheney was charged with the loss.

Jimmie's Market lengthened its lead to four games with five games left to play by downing the South End Businessmen by the score of 6-4 yesterday in a Tiptop Softball League game at East Side Field.

The victory was the 10th for the unbeaten league leaders and the ninth for Larry Peters.

Jimmie's obtained only three safeties but made the blows count. The blow that actually decided the game was Wayne Holly's 2-run homer which gave the Marketers a 5-2 lead in the second inning. George Barb's double and "Buddy" Meade's single were the other hits credited to the winners.

South End garnered nine hits but left 11 runners on the hassocks. DiGilarmo, Bill Mallow and Jerry Bowman collected two hits each for the losers.

Ernie Rockwell blasted a pair of homers and Phil Ketterman rapped a double and single as McIntyre's Grocery amassed 13 hits to trounce the Alinco Club at Campobello, 13-1. Rockwell tossed a two-hitter.

Penn Avenue scored six runs in the last two innings and trimmed Ellerslie on the latter's field by the score of 9-4.

Frederick Girl Breaks Record

Tamara Davis Wins In A. A. U. Hurdles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sixteen-year-old Wyoma Tyus of Griffin, Ga., stole the show at the Girls' National AAU Track and Field Championships Saturday night, but Tamara Davis of Frederick, Md., broke a hurdles record.

Women took over the Coliseum Sunday for their National AAU Championships in which the first two places in each event qualify for berths against the Russian women's team July 21-22 at Palo Alto, Calif.

Miss Tyus won three races, tied two dash records and came within one-tenth of a second of equaling another Saturday. She is the protege of Ed Temple, coach of Olympic star Wilma Rudolph Ward.

Miss Davis set the record in the 50-yard hurdles with a time of :06.9. The previous record of :07.0 was set in 1955 by Jeannette Cantrell of Ponca City, Okla., and tied in 1960 by Kay Miller of Corpus Christi, Tex.

In team scoring, Frederick placed third with 40 points as Pleasant Hill, Calif., won with 45 points.

In Memoriam

STEVENS — In loving memory of my dear husband, John Stevens, who passed away July 9, 1957.
The depths of sorrow I cannot tell,
Of the loss of one I love so well,
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep,
His memory I shall always keep.
—Sadly missed by his wife, Idella.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ J 8 5 3 ♥ K 10 9 3 2 ♦ A 8 ♣ 9 2
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♣
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. This hand qualifies for another bid. If partner has a good raise there should be a reasonable play for game.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ 7 ♥ A K 8 7 3 ♦ K J 4 ♣ K Q 5 2
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 NT	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two clubs. You have a very strong hand, but unless you can find a satisfactory fit it would be unwise to force any further action from partner. If he drops you in two clubs, it is very unlikely that a game will have been missed.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠ K Q ♥ A K J 4 3 ♦ A 9 3 ♣ K 8 6
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	Pass
1 ♠	Double	2 ♠	3 ♥
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass—and fast. If there were a game in this hand, partner would have been able to keep the bidding open on the first round. He is merely making a competitive effort to stop the opponents from stealing a part score and he should not be punished for his enterprise.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ 6 ♥ Q 6 ♦ K Q J 10 9 8 7 6 ♣ 6 3
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♣	?

What do you bid?

A.—Four diamonds. This hand presents two logical choices; either a pass to find out more about the hand or a preempt. Our preference is for the four diamond bid. We do not consider an immediate free bid of two diamonds to be good strategy

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠ K 9 4 3 ♥ K Q J 5 3 ♦ 5 2 ♣ 10 6
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
2 ♠ [weak]	3 ♣	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Three no trump. A bid of three hearts would be pointless inasmuch as partner would surely have made a take-out double had he possessed any values in that suit. Furthermore, barring unexpected spade strength in his hand, he will surely be forced to return to four clubs and the shorter road to game will have been by-passed. Experience dictates an assumption of diamond protection in partner's hand which is a reasonable supposition.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠ Q 10 8 7 4 ♥ 8 2 ♦ J 9 6 3 ♣ A K
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♣	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Partner's raise to two spades is an invitation to go on to game and is made in the light of your previous pass. Partner could hardly expect any more from a passed hand.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠ K 5 4 ♥ A Q 10 ♦ A K 9 ♣ K J 8 7
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	Pass	2 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—False pride in the possession of 20 points should not induce you to assume any risk at the level of three on a hand which does not present the remotest hope for game. Nothing can be deader than the hand of a partner who could not keep open a bid of one club.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠ A Q 3 ♥ 5 ♦ A Q 3 2 ♣ K Q 9 6 2
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—A temporizing bid is indicated. You have sufficient strength to warrant a jump rebid but the trump holding is not quite adequate for a jump in spades. The best solution is a bid of two diamonds intending to support spades next round. This bid is known as a reverse [a rebid in a higher ranking suit at the two level] and describes a hand worth approximately 19 points.

Rome's Pines Drying Up

ROME (AP) — A special study commission says many of Rome's pine trees are drying up largely because of gases in the air. It urged city officials to take steps to limit air contamination caused by industrial fumes, smoke from homes and automobile exhaust fumes.

Sheep For Ecuador

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ J 8 5 3 ♥ K 10 9 3 2 ♦ A 8 ♣ 9 2
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♣
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. This hand qualifies for another bid. If partner has a good raise there should be a reasonable play for game.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ 7 ♥ A K 8 7 3 ♦ K J 4 ♣ K Q 5 2
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 NT	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two clubs. You have a very strong hand, but unless you can find a satisfactory fit it would be unwise to force any further action from partner. If he drops you in two clubs, it is very unlikely that a game will have been missed.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠ K Q ♥ A K J 4 3 ♦ A 9 3 ♣ K 8 6
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	Pass
1 ♠	Double	2 ♠	3 ♥
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass—and fast. If there were a game in this hand, partner would have been able to keep the bidding open on the first round. He is merely making a competitive effort to stop the opponents from stealing a part score and he should not be punished for his enterprise.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ 6 ♥ Q 6 ♦ K Q J 10 9 8 7 6 ♣ 6 3
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♣	?

What do you bid?

A.—Four diamonds. This hand presents two logical choices; either a pass to find out more about the hand or a preempt. Our preference is for the four diamond bid. We do not consider an immediate free bid of two diamonds to be good strategy

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠ K 9 4 3 ♥ K Q J 5 3 ♦ 5 2 ♣ 10 6
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
2 ♠ [weak]	3 ♣	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Three no trump. A bid of three hearts would be pointless inasmuch as partner would surely have made a take-out double had he possessed any values in that suit. Furthermore, barring unexpected spade strength in his hand, he will surely be forced to return to four clubs and the shorter road to game will have been by-passed. Experience dictates an assumption of diamond protection in partner's hand which is a reasonable supposition.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠ Q 10 8 7 4 ♥ 8 2 ♦ J 9 6 3 ♣ A K
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♣	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Partner's raise to two spades is an invitation to go on to game and is made in the light of your previous pass. Partner could hardly expect any more from a passed hand.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠ K 5 4 ♥ A Q 10 ♦ A K 9 ♣ K J 8 7
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	Pass	2 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—False pride in the possession of 20 points should not induce you to assume any risk at the level of three on a hand which does not present the remotest hope for game. Nothing can be deader than the hand of a partner who could not keep open a bid of one club.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠ A Q 3 ♥ 5 ♦ A Q 3 2 ♣ K Q 9 6 2
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—A temporizing bid is indicated. You have sufficient strength to warrant a jump rebid but the trump holding is not quite adequate for a jump in spades. The best solution is a bid of two diamonds intending to support spades next round. This bid is known as a reverse [a rebid in a higher ranking suit at the two level] and describes a hand worth approximately 19 points.

City Water Line Map Correction Will Be Made

Inaccuracies Noted In Recent Survey

Correction of the map of the Cumberland water distribution system will be one of the benefits derived by the City of Cumberland from the water waste survey completed here recently by Pitometer Associates.

In a report to Water Commissioner G. Ray Light, the firm said that during the course of the survey it was found that the present map of the water distribution system contained several inaccuracies.

Some of the inaccuracies, the firm said, were already known to the Water Department, and in some cases the map was found to be rather incomplete.

Some Sketches Lost

The area which left most to be desired, the report said, was in the South Cumberland district, where all the mains laid in recent years were not included.

The firm said the lack of accurate mapping of the lines caused a great loss of time in the survey and "will undoubtedly result in further loss of time should an emergency develop."

It was noticed, the report said that whenever a new main was laid, a rough sketch was hastily drawn up and turned over to the Water Department Warehouse.

The sketches, the report added, were filed away and many were eventually lost, so that to this date there is no record or measurement of the mains and the location of the valves, adding: "This is a practice that should be corrected."

Every additional main and valve, and any relocation of hydrants, the Pitometer people said, should be reported as soon as possible to the Engineering Department, which will proceed to have the map brought up to date according to the data received.

Records Needed

The firm said that although the eventual updating of the map will be most helpful, it is strongly recommended that a record be kept of every valve in existence in the water distribution system.

This could be done, it was suggested, in the form of a reference book, where every known valve would be shown in a small drawing, together with measurements taken from some permanent location.

The information should also disclose, the report said, the number of turns needed to operate the valve and the direction required to close it.

Plans for the correction and updating of the water transmission system, along with a plan for inspecting and operating all valves at regular intervals, will be discussed at a meeting to be held soon by Commissioner Light with officials of the Water Department and the Engineering Department.

Stickers Issued To Sidewalk Permit Holders

Stickers are being issued by the City Engineering Department to vehicles which have to run over curbs and sidewalks in the pursuit of their business.

The permits are issued each year without charge to coal trucks, moving vans and similar vehicles which have occasion to run over sidewalks while making deliveries.

The sticker system has been adopted so officers checking vehicles which run over curbs can see at a glance that the truck is licensed.

The permits provide the permit holder and the property owner whose curb is passed over shall be jointly responsible for injuries or accidents occurring.

The issuance of the permits also establishes responsibility if curbs or sidewalks should be damaged by the passage of the heavy vehicles.

City Voting Rolls Drop

Registration rolls of the City of Cumberland decreased three in the four days the books were open during June.

The books were reopened on June 26 following the general election, and nine new voters were enrolled.

But 12 deaths reported to City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery resulted in a loss of three voters for the month.

Voting records on June 30 showed a total of 10,483 registered. Included were 5,574 males and 4,909 female voters.

There were 10,486 voters eligible to vote in the June 19 general election. Only 6,840, or 65.3 per cent voted.

The Cumberland Registration Office is located in the basement of City Hall and is open for business Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Track Open After Freight Leaves Rails

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad crews early yesterday opened one track of the main line about five miles west of Terra Alta, where two diesel units and 35 cars of the B & O's freight Time Saver derailed Saturday morning.

Officials said crews of relief trains dispatched from Cumberland and Grafton were still working last night to clear the other two tracks.

No one was injured as the derailed cars were strewn across the main line tracks. Traffic was detoured from Cumberland by way of Connellsville, Fairmont and Grafton.

The accident occured as the fifth and sixth diesel units of the train operated by Dayton L. Murphy, LaVale, left the tracks and were followed by the next 35 freight cars.

County Issues 82 Building Permits In June

June was another good month for building permit activity in the unincorporated areas of Allegany County as 82 permits were issued for construction estimated by the builders to cost a total of $559,525.

The number of permits issued by C. Lee Renaud, county planning director, and James G. Stevenson, clerk to the Board of County Commissioners, was the highest for any month of 1962. However the total estimated cost of construction was topped by June's $667,550, February's $625,700, and April's $593,325.

During the first six months of 1962, some 298 building permits were issued at the Court House for construction aggregating $2,902,095. The number of permits is 64 more than the 234 obtained in the first half of 1961 and a whopping $1,539,553 above the $1,362,542 of the first half of 1961.

23 Districts

Building permits were issued last month for work in 23 different election districts of the county. District 29, LaVale, for which Mr. Stevenson still issues the permits, was the June leader with 22 permits, followed closely by District 7 in the Cresaptown-Rawlings area with 15 permits.

Mr. Renaud's authority to issue building permits and zoning certificates under the county's interim zoning ordinance does not embrace District 29 because that district has its own zoning program.

Other districts with more than one June permit included District 13, Mt. Savage, eight; District 16, North Branch, six; District 10, Lonaconing; 18, Midland, and 24, Eckhart, three each; Districts 2, Oldtown; 3, Flintstone; 5, North End suburban; 11, Frostburg suburban, District 20, Ellerslie, and 31, McCoole, two each.

10 With One Each

Those with a single June building permit included Districts 1, Little Orleans; 4, South End suburban; 6, West Side suburban; 8, Westernport suburban; 9, Barton; 19, Borden Shaft; 21, Gross; 26, Frostburg suburban; 30, Zihlman, and 33, Kifer.

Included among the 82 June permits were 51 for new dwellings, 14 for dwelling additions, nine for garages, and one each for a church addition, post office addition, swimming pool, summer camp, club house, hunting lodge, stable and storage shed.

Last June there were 69 building permits for $319,305.

The monthly totals for 1961:

January—nine and $49,525; February—four and $27,000; March—39 and $297,975; April — 49 and $267,650; May — 64 and $401,087, and June — 69 and $319,305

Monthly totals for 1962:

January—20 and $222,145; February—28 and $625,700; March—24 and $233,850; April — 63 and $593,325; May—81 and $667,550; June—82 and $559,525.

Joint Service Set For Boys Who Drowned

Uncle Dies Trving To Save Nephew

A joint funeral service for two young Kingwood, W. Va., area boys who drowned Saturday in the North Fork of the Potomac River will be conducted tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at the Browning Funeral Home in Kingwood.

Victims of the accident were Virgil Lawrence Pyles, 8, son of Thomas and Ruth (Roden) Pyles, and David Lee Roden, 14, son of Edward and Dorothy (Shaw) Roden. The Roden youth was the uncle of the Pyles boy.

Rev. Dayton Smith will conduct the service and burial will be in Bethlehem Cemetery at Kingwood.

According to Cpl. W. H. Huff and Trooper R. L. Midkiff, of the Franklin detachment of West Virginia State Police, the two lads were with a group along the bank of the stream, fishing about four miles north of Mouth of Seneca.

According to information pieced together by police, the Pyles boy fell into the river and the Roden youth and Rodney Pike Jr., 15, also of Kingwood, jumped into the stream to save him. Pike was a near victim also, being carried under in his attempt to save the others.

Thomas Pyles and Edward Roden, fathers of the victims, were nearby and were called by others in the party. They removed the two bodies from the river.

The Arnold ambulance, from Petersburg, was on the scene soon after being called. Arlyn Arnold enlisted the aid of bystanders, and mouth-to-mouth and chest artificial respiration was applied. They succeeded only in reviving the Pike youth and he was rushed to Grant Memorial Hospital, Petersburg, where he was treated and released.

Dr. H. L. Eye, Pendleton County coroner, pronounced the Pyles and Roden boys dead after arriving on the scene.

The Pyles youth also is survived by two brothers and two sisters, Eugene, Robert, Hazel and Sally Pyles, all at home; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Pyles, RFD 1, Kingwood, and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Roden, also of RFD 1, Kingwood.

City Water Line Map Correction Will Be Made

Inaccuracies Noted In Recent Survey

Correction of the map of the Cumberland water distribution system will be one of the benefits derived by the City of Cumberland from the water waste survey completed here recently by Pitometer Associates.

In a report to Water Commissioner G. Ray Light, the firm said that during the course of the survey it was found that the present map of the water distribution system contained several inaccuracies.

Some of the inaccuracies, the firm said, were already known to the Water Department, and in some cases the map was found to be rather incomplete.

Some Sketches Lost

The area which left most to be desired, the report said, was in the South Cumberland district, where all the mains laid in recent years were not included.

The firm said the lack of accurate mapping of the lines caused a great loss of time in the survey and "will undoubtedly result in further loss of time should an emergency develop."

It was noticed, the report said that whenever a new main was laid, a rough sketch was hastily drawn up and turned over to the Water Department Warehouse.

The sketches, the report added, were filed away and many were eventually lost, so that to this date there is no record or measurement of the mains and the location of the valves, adding: "This is a practice that should be corrected."

Every additional main and valve, and any relocation of hydrants, the Pitometer people said, should be reported as soon as possible to the Engineering Department, which will proceed to have the map brought up to date according to the data received.

Records Needed

The firm said that although the eventual updating of the map will be most helpful, it is strongly recommended that a record be kept of every valve in existence in the water distribution system.

This could be done, it was suggested, in the form of a reference book, where every known valve would be shown in a small drawing, together with measurements taken from some permanent location.

The information should also disclose, the report said, the number of turns needed to operate the valve and the direction required to close it.

Plans for the correction and updating of the water transmission system, along with a plan for inspecting and operating all valves at regular intervals, will be discussed at a meeting to be held soon by Commissioner Light with officials of the Water Department and the Engineering Department.

Stickers Issued To Sidewalk Permit Holders

Stickers are being issued by the City Engineering Department to vehicles which have to run over curbs and sidewalks in the pursuit of their business.

The permits are issued each year without charge to coal trucks, moving vans and similar vehicles which have occasion to run over sidewalks while making deliveries.

The sticker system has been adopted so officers checking vehicles which run over curbs can see at a glance that the truck is licensed.

The permits provide the permit holder and the property owner whose curb is passed over shall be jointly responsible for injuries or accidents occurring.

The issuance of the permits also establishes responsibility if curbs or sidewalks should be damaged by the passage of the heavy vehicles.

Registration rolls of the City of Cumberland decreased three in the four days the books were open during June.

There were 10,486 voters eligible to vote in the June 19 general election. Only 6,840, or 65.3 per cent voted.
